Officials' offer of $1.80 a day is an 'insult,' teachers say Teachers, parents and officials talk contract

By Lisa Boudreau

Contract negotiations between the teachers' union and the School Committee were canceled last Thursday, just three days after a shouting match between a teacher and School Committee member erupted at a public meeting. Three weeks ago, teachers stopped volunteering for any before- or after-school activity that is not in their contract.

"The School Committee canceled the meeting two hours before it was supposed to begin," said Tom Meyers, president of the teachers' union and a social studies teacher at Andover High School.

Teacher Nancy Finneran

Mr. Meyers said the canceled meeting and the shouting match between himself and committee member Chris Outwin have teachers questioning if the School Committee intends to bargain in good faith.

Mary Lyman, a member of the School Committee and its negotiating team, said the meeting was canceled because of two deaths in her family. She said negotiations will be rescheduled.

Andover reacts to the debates

By Lisa Boudreau

There was more finger pointing and posturing in the Andover Townsman conference room last Sunday night than in the St. Louis TV studio where the presidential debate was held.

The Townsman invited six Andover residents to watch and discuss the debate. The six were two Democrats, two Republicans, a Ross-Perot supporter, and a man leaning toward Mr. Perot.

At one point during the discussion after the debate, Democrat Bob LaRochelle accused Republican Jim Edholm of using the same rhetoric to cloud the issues as the national and local Republican candidates use.

In the middle of that verbal spar-

Trying a new management approach

By Don Staruk

A new approach to management is quietly being applied in Andover, in town government, schools and businesses, which Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, hopes will help launch the town successfully into the 21st century.

Total Quality Management is a philosophy that has been touted for several years by

Seeking your opinion about the presidential race

The Townsman wants to know what Andover residents are thinking about the presidential race.

• Your choice: In the paper's Oct. 22 and 29 issues, the paper will run residents' choices for president, along with no more than three sentences of explanation. They are due at 33 Chestnut St. by Monday at 5 p.m. both weeks. Include a name, address and phone number; the phone number won't be published. Or fax the information to 470-2819.

• Debates: The paper is looking for a total of six people — two for Bush, two for Clinton two for Perot — or "fence-sitters," to watch the Tuesday, Oct. 19, presidential debate with Townsman staff. Because the Townsman invited residents who are very involved in politics to watch the first debate with newspaper staff, this time people should be less involved, but willing to discuss their choice for president.

Call 475-1943 and ask for someone in the editorial department if you wish to be one of the six.

Coon, Murphy talk about PACs and finances

By Don Staruk

Ellen Murphy, Democratic candidate for state representative, continued her attack on Rep. Gary Coon this week, accusing him of accepting money from Political Action Committees after knocking his opponent for doing the same thing two years ago.

"The kind of political campaign we've run is an indicator of the kind of public servant we'll be," Ms. Murphy said Wednesday.

Two years ago Rep. Coon attacked his then opponent, Susan Tucker, of accepting PAC

Quality management, a new approach

Goal/QPC, a nonprofit group of academics, business people and politicians from Greater Lawrence, but is still considered a new approach in schools, government and many businesses.

TQM involves everybody in an organization in making improvements to provide a higher quality product or service to customers, according to Bob King, executive director of Goal/QPC.

Beginning about 1900, the practice in manufacturing was for a supervisor to assign an engineer to figure out the best way to do a job, then have workers do it. Responsibilities were compartmentalized, according to Mr. King.

In the 1960s, some companies started getting workers involved in making the decision of how best to do a job, and that is the basic philosophy of TQM, according to Mr. King.

The principles of TQM are currently being used in organizations as big as the U.S. Air Force and as small as St. Augustine's School here in Andover, according to Mr. King. Gov. Weld has a TQM steering committee for the state and uses TQM principles in his own office operations, Mr. King said.

TQM in Andover

Buzz Stapczynski, Andover's town manager, has been involved with Goal/QPC for the past year and uses TQM principles in managing town affairs.

"We use it every day. I'm using it with you," Mr. Stapczynski said on the phone one day last week. "It's a process and a way of dealing with people."

The concept is how you deal with your customers and trying to anticipate their needs and trying to provide programs in the municipal areas that fit the town, the manager said.

He has had several breakfast meetings for department heads, school officials, union representatives, selectmen and others, featuring guest speakers talking about how TQM has been applied in local businesses. These have included speakers from Hewlett-Packard, Marriott, Raytheon and AT&T.

"What we're trying to do is learn from the best of the businesses in the area, to find out what they've done to instill quality," Mr. Stapczynski said.

Whereas profit is the motivating factor to use TQM in private industry, there are different reasons to use it in government, according to Mr. King.

"It provides an opportunity to have better quality and better efficiency. People feel better about their jobs and what they're doing," Mr. King said. "I think that is the benefit for local government."

TQM is also being used in Andover at St. Augustine's School, which has been working with Goal/QPC for two years in what Dr. Marie Galinski, school principal, called a reciprocal arrangement. While St. Augustine's uses the TQM techniques in its decision making operations, Goal is observing the principles in practice and learning new ways those principles can be applied in education.

Sue Tucker, former state representative from Andover, now works with Goal/QPC and for the past three months has been working with Marsha McDonough, Greater Lawrence Technical School superintendent, to bring the principles of TQM to that school.

TQM seminar here

Mr. Stapczynski first became familiar with TQM and Goal when he attended its annual conference in Boston last year. This year's Goal/QPC conference, scheduled for Oct. 26, 27 and 28 in Boston, is already overbooked, according to Larry LeFebre, former mayor of Lawrence and a founder of Goal/QPC. But Mr. Stapczynski and the Merrimack Valley Excellence Council, a group started by Goal/QPC, will host a sort of mini TQM conference next Thursday, Oct. 22, at Doherty Memorial Auditorium.

Joe Sensenbrenner, former mayor of Madison, Wis., and a pioneer in applying TQM to municipal government, will be the guest speaker. The reception is for business and municipal leaders and is by reservation only.

Merrimack Valley Excellence Council
The Merrimack Valley Excellence Council was created this past summer by Goal, with the chambers of commerce from Lawrence, Salem, Haverhill, Amesbury and Newburyport, and a $100,000 commitment of resources from Goal for the first year.

During a discussion about the cost of TQM training at the Council's August meeting, Mr. Stapczynski told attendees that TQM will happen in local government, but that the ability to pay for training might have an impact on how soon towns can get started with it.

Politically, selectmen don't see TQM as a priority when competing with town services for limited funds, Mr. Stapczynski said. He suggested that the Excellence Council can

NEWS IN BRIEF

'Suicide driver' injures man

By Don Staruk

An Andover man allegedly told police he was trying to kill himself when he drove his car into another car on Route 114 in Lawrence Saturday, critically injuring the driver of the second car.

James A. Russo, 55, of 7 Sherry Drive, was en route to see a doctor for emotional problems when he drove his Suzuki Sidekick into a BMW driven by Gary Detora, 39, of Haverhill, according to published reports. Mr. Detora was sitting in the driveway of Friendly's Ice Cream waiting to pull out onto Route 114 when his car was struck on the driver's side door.

Mr. Detora, a self-employed carpenter and father of five children, suffered head and internal injuries and was still in critical condition in Lawrence General Hospital this week. Mr. Russo was not injured in the accident.

Mr. Russo was placed under arrest at the scene after he allegedly told police that he was trying to kill himself and intentionally rammed Mr. Detora's car. He will be arraigned in Lawrence District Court Oct. 26 on charges of assault and battery with a dangerous weapon and driving to endanger. Mr. Russo is currently undergoing psychiatric evaluation at Holy Family Hospital, according to Lawrence police.

The urn is back

By Don Staruk

The cast-iron urn stolen from in front of Old Town Hall last week was found by Andover detectives in a Haverhill Antique shop Wednesday.

No arrests have been made in the theft, according to Detective Dave Grant.

"We do have a couple of suspects and the last two or three days we've been trying to locate them," Detective Grant said Tuesday.

The 19th century urn was noticed missing from its position to the right of the Main Street entrance to Old Town Hall on Saturday morning, Oct. 3. The urn is one of two that were bought, restored and maintained at Old Town Hall by the Andover Garden Club.

Detectives Donald Pattullo, Joseph Hastings and Grant previewed auctions and searched antique dealers before receiving a tip that the missing urn was at Oak Ridge Antiques, on Water Street in Haverhill.

The dealer told detectives he paid $125 for the urn, valued at $4,000 by Edith King, Andover Garden Club member. The dealer denied knowing the item was stolen and was not charged.

Police were tipped off by an informant in August that someone would try to steal several urns in town, according to Detective Grant. But nothing happened until three weeks after they received that information, when two urns were taken from a residence on North Main Street on Sept. 2. That was followed by a similar theft on Karlton Circle on Oct. 1 and from Old Town Hall last week.

Urn damaged

The returned urn is "not in wonderful condition," according to Ms. King.

A handle apparently was broken off the urn by the thieves and had been crudely welded back on by the antique dealer. She was not sure if the wrought iron burned by the welding could be repaired.

"Until we access it, it's hard to tell," Ms. King said.

The recovered urn, and its mate, which was removed from Old Town Hall after the theft of the first one, will remain in storage until the repairs are made, and until the town and the Garden Club can figure a way to secure them safely at Old Town Hall.

League plans Oct. 22 debate

In order to encourage civic responsibility in the voting process, the League of Women Voters of Andover Voter Service Committee, with the assistance of the Andover Chamber of Commerce, invites all townspeople to the candidates debate on Thursday, Oct. 22, at 7:30 p.m. at the second floor large meeting room of Memorial Hall Library.

The Voter Service chairwomen Carol Couture and Kathleen Fenton have invited local and regional general-election candidates. The League has prepared questions and there will be an opportunity for the audience to ask questions. Each candidate will have an opportunity for a short response to his or her opponent's answer.

There will be refreshments and the debate will be carried live over cable television.

Domestic violence group seeks volunteers

Citizen volunteers are needed to observe court proceedings on domestic violence cases and report their findings as part of a state-wide monitoring project.

Those who support battered women say it is essential to learn how rigorously new domestic violence laws are being enforced in Massachusetts' courts.

Volunteers need only commit a few hours per month for several months. A training session will be held Friday, Oct. 23, from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m. in Boston. Anyone interested in this project should call Sue Tucker at 475-7584.

The day the Andover Fire Department held an open house at its North Main Street headquarters - last Saturday - firefighters had a chance to demonstrate what they do at an accident scene. Ambulance and fire crews were dispatched to this accident at the on-ramp to Route 495 north, from Route 28, North Main Street. A car leaving the highway jumped the median strip and crashed into another car headed up the on-ramp. The car on the right, which was coming off 495, had only the driver in it; the one at left had two adults and an infant. All four were taken to area hospitals by three ambulances.

Teacher contract is at a stalemate

Zero increase 'won't do'

Mr. Meyers said the committee has offered the teachers a "zero-percent" increase this year, a 1 percent raise next year and 1 percent the following year.

"That won't do. It works out to about $1.80 a day," said Mr. Meyers.

"I've talked to economists who tell me the inflation rate is 3.5 to 4 percent statewide. To consider their offer would put us in a negative position," he said.

Susan Jenkins, chairwoman of the School Committee, said the town doesn't have the money to pay for raises. According to the committee, each percentage point the teachers' contract is raised will cost the town $180,000.

What some parents say

The Townsmen contacted more than a dozen parents and asked them to comment on the current teacher-School Committee negotiations. Several said they didn't want to comment because they didn't have enough information, and a few declined because they are Parent Teacher Organization officials.

The few who agreed to talk with the Townsmen asked not to be identified. They said their children would suffer if it was known their parents spoke out against the teachers' raises.

One woman said if her name was published she would have an even harder time getting support services for her child than she already has.

"I was very supportive of the teachers last time around" three years ago, said one mother, who has a child in the middle school and another at the high school.

"I think the teachers are in outer space this time. It is very distressing for me to feel this way because I do support education and I do believe that teachers should be paid well, but we are in some very tough times.

"A lot of people have lost their jobs," she continued. "I have. People in business are giving up a great deal to keep their jobs and keep their businesses afloat. I just don't think teachers are being realistic."

Another mother said the only way she'd support an increase would be if it were for the younger teachers in the system.

"I think there is a lot of support for the School Committee, but I don't think that the School Committee is going to get input from parents because they are afraid to say anything in a public meeting that is broadcast on cable TV," said the mother of three children in the public schools.

Another parent, who has two students in the secondary schools and one in elementary school, said she's certain Andover "won't vote for a Proposition 2 1/2 override, and if the teachers get raises it means the student-teacher ratios will go up even higher than they are now. At the secondary level that means that programs will be eliminated. I've talked with more than a dozen friends who have kids in the Andover public schools and none of them can justify a raise right now," said the same mother.

One father of an elementary school student and two secondary students said he believes Andover has been fair to its teachers compared to other communities in the state.

"Last year they got a 6 percent increase. I don't think they should get one this year. I don't know too many people who are guaranteed jobs until they retire. I don't think the teachers understand what it is like for us. DEC (Digital Equipment Corp.) Wang and Raytheon are all on the decline and are laying off. A lot of us are worried if we'll have a job in six months," he said.

He believes the Massachusetts Teachers' Association has targeted Andover to play "hardball."

"The MTA is the most militant union in the state. I think they've selected Andover to use as an example," he said.

Teachers speak out

Mr. Meyers said his union suggested using a different approach to negotiations this year called "integrative bargaining" that is less confrontational. He said the School Committee wasn't interested.

North Andover used it and settled its contract dispute with teachers before school began this fall. Integrative bargaining does not use lawyers and assumes both sides can win by finding a common ground rather than one side losing if the other gets what it wants. The state teachers' union held training seminars that Mr. Meyers and other

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

THE BETTER PART OF WISDOM

A wisdom teeth emerge between the ages of 15 and 18, the dentist will probably evaluate their condition and the mouth's ability to accommodate them. If these sets of back molars are not positioned properly or if they might interfere with adjoining molars, the dentist may recommend that the wisdom teeth be pulled before their roots are fully formed. Studies show that fewer complications arise and recovery is better when the wisdom teeth are removed before age 25. Waiting longer to extract problem wisdom teeth increases the risk that infection may arise where bacteria penetrate sites of partially-emerged wisdom teeth. Postponing extraction also may increase the risk that growing wisdom teeth might dissolve or damage the roots of other molars.

When trauma or disease strikes any tooth, it also can affect the entire mouth. Even if the lost, injured, diseased or out-of-positioned tooth is beyond help, your family dentist can minimize the affects on the remaining teeth. We provide complete dental care for all members of your family, from kids to grandparents. We're easy to find at 296 Lowell St., Rt. 133, with easy access off Rt. 93, and have office hours Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6 and by appointment. Call us for your next dental checkup at 475-2431. # Teacher contract . . .

Andover teachers attended.

School Committee Chairwoman Jenkins said negotiations began last February with the committee using its members, not lawyers, in the beginning to work with the teachers. According to Ms. Jenkins, the idea of using integrative bargaining was not brought up.

Nancy Finneran, an English teacher at Doherty Middle, said she found the zero-, 1- and 1-percentage increase offer "insulting."

"I support the efforts of our union. I know that they're working to get what they think is fair and equitable. They aren't asking for the moon," said Ms. Finneran, who has taught in Andover for six years.

Even though she supports the union, Ms. Finneran said she is anxious to end the teachers' halt on volunteer activities.

"This work action only hurts the kids and it's so important to set a good tone at the beginning of the year," she said.

When parents say Andover teachers don't deserve a raise because they are paid better than other teacher in the Merrimack Valley, Ms. Finneran, whose salary is $32,103, believes parents aren't making fair comparisons. She said Andover students get a much better education than students in neighboring communities. "It's like comparing apples and oranges," she said. "People move into Andover because it has a reputation for quality public schools. People compare us to the Lexingtons, the Westons and the Brooklines, but we aren't paid any better than teachers there. The last contract we settled brought us closer, but we aren't paid any better," said Ms. Finneran.

The median pay for a teacher in Andover is approximately $42,000. Ms. Finneran said that is for a teacher who has a master's degree plus 30 credits and 15 or more years in the system. She said it doesn't represent the pay she and other junior teachers receive. The lowest teacher salary is $22,945, for a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree. The highest salary is $50,946, but there are only a few paid that.

"I'd be happy with a cost-of-living increase," she said.

Ms. Finneran said she'd like to see the integrative bargaining technique tried.

"I would love to see it implemented here. It's now so antagonistic, an us-against-them attitude. I'm committed to the children and the parents of this community. That's why I got into teaching. I know we can solve this and both sides can come out winners," she said.

John Givens, another English teacher at DMS, said he was surprised at the "outburst" by School Committee member Dr. Outwin. He said the lack of negotiation progress and the aggressive approach only hampers teachers who want to do their job.

"What (the School Committee) offered - a $1.80 increase a day - is unreasonable. I look at my own expenses and they've increased. Anything less than a cost-of-living increase would be a cut in pay. We are looking for something fair. I don't think we're being greedy," he said.

Liz Cahoon, an elementary school teacher for 28 years, is retiring from Bancroft after this year. Her retirement salary will depend on her earnings for the past three years.

Ms. Cahoon hopes for an increase this year that is "fair" but the zero, 1, 1 offer was and "insult," she said. "I'm excited about the new math program that has begun in the elementary schools this year, but it requires a lot of preparation time. Not being able to stay

Total Quality at St. A's

By Don Staruk

St. Augustine's School in Andover has been involved with Goal/QPC and Total Quality Management for two years with great success, according to Dr. Marie Galinski, school principal.

"We're using their decision making tools in planning," Dr. Galinski said last week.

TQM had already been used successfully in business when Dr. Galinski and other St. Augustine's School officials heard of its applications in education. They started asking questions and developed a reciprocal relationship with Goal/QPC. St. Augustine's officials were allowed to attend conferences and workshops on TQM in exchange for input on applications in education. Goal representatives also sat in on St. Augustine's planning sessions to see TQM in action in an educational environment.

TQM tools were used to evaluate one year's success and plan for the next; to identify issues, and bring together people to work on those issues.

"It's a process you use," Dr. Galinski said.

Officials used TQM to get students and teachers involved in improving the school's cafeteria. Feedback from students and teachers was used to learn what improvements they, the customers, wanted. Officials then figured out which of those suggestions were possible, and changes were made.

"We changed the way lunches were being served, what was being served and how the kids paid for lunch," she said.

They also put in a snack bar and a juice machine. Basically, they gave the customers what they wanted.

help raise awareness of TQM's importance.

Mr. Stapczynski is chairman of the Excellence Council's Government Sector Committee, charged with advancing TQM in the public sector. He and town department heads are anxious to hear from local people who have been successful with TQM.

The council also has a K-12 Education Committee charged with getting TQM started in schools. Goal already offers courses at Northern Essex Community College. Goal hosts a roundtable discussion for Merrimack Valley organizations every month.

at school as long as I usually would - sometimes to 5 at night - is killing me," she said.

"Coaches are compensated for the things they do because they are so visible. Teachers want to be compensated for the non-visible things too. "I understand the economy and I understand that the School Committee is looking to take care of the buildings. I live with buckets all around my room because of the leaky roof. But taking care of the buildings shouldn't come at the expense of paying teachers fairly."

Menus: p. 17

"That's the name of the game with TQM. You identify the customer and satisfy the needs," Dr. Galinski said, "which is a totally new concept for schools."

But TQM wasn't just brought in to solve problems, according to the principal.

"There's always room for improvement, and we became aware of the planning tools of

BUSINESS

Genetics is expanding

Genetics Institute Inc. announced recently that it is moving ahead with a significant expansion of its existing 210,000-square-foot product development and manufacturing site in Andover. The new $55 million expansion project includes a 113,000-square-foot preclinical research and development building; a 42,000-square-foot central energy plant; and site preparation for potential future expansion on the 53-acre Genetics Institute campus.

"When complete, this expansion project will provide us with space for approximately 200 additional employees in Andover and will bring our total investment in facilities in Andover to over $130 million," said Gabriel Schmergel, president and chief executive officer of Genetics Institute.

"Genetics Institute's expansion in Andover means more new jobs for Massachusetts and represents a key vote of confidence for the Commonwealth by one of the leading companies in the biotechnology industry," said Massachusetts Secretary of Economic Affairs, Stephen P. Tocco.

Genetics Institute, the largest biotechnology company employer in Massachusetts, is close to meeting its target of hiring more than 100 new employees in 1992, bringing its full-time employee base to more than 700. Approximately half of these employees currently work in Andover and the other half work in the company's 145,000-square-foot corporate headquarters and discovery research facilities in Cambridge. In August, Genetics Institute also announced that it purchased an additional 43,000-square-foot research facility in Cambridge to provide for its expanding Small Molecule Drug Discovery program.

"While Andover was our preferred site for this major expansion program, we considered other alternatives both within and outside of Massachusetts," said Garen Bohlin, executive vice president. "In the end, we were able to work successfully with highly responsive officials from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the town of Andover to meet our needs in Andover."

Raytheon earnings are up 5.1 percent over last year

Raytheon Company earned $156.1 million, up 5.1 percent compared with a year ago, on sales of $2.214 billion during the third quarter of 1992. In the same period last year, net income was $148.4 million on sales of $2.235 billion.

"Raytheon's earnings in the third quarter benefited from improved profitability in our major commercial segments - energy and environmental, aircraft products and major appliances - despite the sluggish economy and the slip in receipt of foreign contracts," said Dennis J. Picard, Raytheon's chairman and CEO.

"We are encouraged by the reduction in our total debt, down to $1.015 billion, and by our debt-to-equity ratio of 27.2 percent at the end of the third quarter," he said. At the end of this year's second quarter, Raytheon's total debt was $1.305 billion and the debt-to-equity ratio was 36.4 percent.

In the first nine months of 1992, Raytheon's net income was $465.1 million on sales of $6.663 billion. This compares with net income of $433.9 million on sales of $6.845 billion in the same period last year.

Raytheon's earnings per share were $1.16 during the third quarter and $3.46 during the first nine months. In the same periods last year, the company's earnings per share were $1.12 and $3.29, respectively.

Total backlog at the end of the quarter was $6.938 billion, including funded U.S. government orders of $4.893 billion. Total backlog at the end of last year's third quarter was $8.039 billion, including funded U.S. government orders of $6.021 billion.

A pending contract for 14 Patriot fire units and 758 Patriot missiles for the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia will have a significant positive impact on backlog, said company personnel.

This library is all about zoning and bylaws

Town meeting members, interested citizens, local officials, and attorneys can find everything they want to know about zoning bylaws, ordinances, maps and recent state zoning legislation at their local Trial Court Law Library.

"For those interested and whose work involves local government, this is a great resource," said Law Librarian Charlie Colakathis of the Lawrence Law Library. "We encourage patrons to take advantage of this material."

The Trial Court Law Libraries teamed up recently with Landlaw Inc. of Belmont to offer the latest zoning information. Every community's material is found in a three-ring notebook, which allows for easy updating of zoning bylaws, ordinances and zoning maps.

This resource will be updated monthly through Landlaw's Legislative Alert, which monitors the latest developments in zoning legislation by the local and state governments.

Used by lawyers, engineers, environmentalists and architects in the state, Landlaw materials are now available at the 17 law libraries. Each law library also will receive a subscription to Landlaw's newsletter, Landletter. The Trial Court/Landlaw agreement offers access to these materials to communities and smaller business firms that are unable to afford Landlaw's research projects and publications.

City zoning ordinances and maps require no approval by the attorney general, but state law requires that each city file copies of their ordinances and maps with the attorney general's office. Landlaw staff also contacts city clerks regularly on any changes in city zoning.

Located on 78 Amesbury St., the Lawrence Law Library is a public library open weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

For further information, call the Lawrence Law Library at 687-7608.

TQM at St. A's . . .

Goal," Dr. Galinski said.

TQM helped school officials identify the need for a foreign language program at St. Augustine's, and one has been implemented.

It took most of the first year to learn and institute TQM techniques at St. Augustine's, according to Dr. Galinski, and the school will keep using them.

"It's mostly because we've seen them be successful that we've decided to continue with it," she said.

Some of those tools can be used on a daily basis, such as those for dealing with people. Other techniques are used to address problems or needs, she said.

"We use them to identify needs or goals and then use them to accomplish those goals or to realize the needs," she said. "I've seen the results in just using it in the few instances that we used it."

The philosophy of TQM is to involve everybody in decision making.

"You're empowering people through TQM," Dr. Galinski said. "I'm really pleased with the results we've gotten. But it has to become a part of your psyche, and that takes a while."

In the long run it is a time-saver. It helps you to be more effective, she said.

Dr. Galinski compared it to computers. They are sometimes difficult to learn, but in time, they make you more effective, more efficient and have a better quality product, she said.

Rep. Coon to work on unemployment

Rep. Gary Coon, R-Andover, has been appointed by Gov. Weld to a special commission to investigate and study the equity and efficiency of the unemployment system in Massachusetts.

The 17-member commission will include three members of the Senate, five members of the House and nine persons with business, government and labor backgrounds.

"I am very pleased to have been chosen to serve on this commission," said Rep. Coon. "The unemployment insurance system in our state must be addressed further. Employers and employees in Massachusetts are crying out for reform."

The commission will report the results of its investigation and study to the general court. These recommendations should be filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives on Dec. 2.

Rep. Coon asks that any employer, employee or unemployed person with ideas or concerns relative to unemployment insurance call him at the State House at (617) 722-2489, or write him at the Statehouse, Room 549, Boston, Mass. 02133.

RESTRICTIVE COVENANTS IN PLANNED COMMUNITIES

If you are considering purchasing a home in a planned community, be sure you understand the ground rules set by the owners' association. These covenants can cover a wide range of subjects, including exterior paint jobs, where campers may be parked, where you can walk your dog, and what kinds of shrubs or flowers you may plant in your front yard.

These covenants have their attractions for many purchasers. You don't have to worry about your neighbors doing some types of things that you might find offensive. At the same time, however, they could cramp your style if you're an individualist and wouldn't appreciate possible community interference in plans for your home. If you're buying a home in a planned community, make your offer contingent on your seeing and approving any neighborhood rules and regulations.

If there's a move in your future, the real estate specialists at Century Minuteman Realty are ready to serve you. Feel free to visit our office at 2 Elm Square, or phone us at 475-1243.

Jenny Byers is captivated by a starfish, one of the animals in the New England Aquarium's Traveling Tidepool, which visited Shawsheen School last Friday.

Need a classified ad? 475-1943.

The opening of Shawsheen Extended Day (SHED) and Kid's Club went smoothly despite a few missed buses and first-day anxiety. SHED/Kid's Club has its highest enrollment to date. The usual 80 children-per-day are enrolled in the SHED Extended-day kindergarten program, but Kid's Club before- and after-school program, for first through fifth-graders, has grown to 85 children. Last year, when Kid's Club opened, there were 35 children.

Both SHED and Kid's Club have new site coordinators. Most staff members have been with the program at least five years, attending workshops and training sessions each year. As Kid's Club has expanded so rapidly, many staff members are new to the club and the profession.

Almost the entire Kid's Club staff is participating in a year-long, school-age training series led by the Child Care Circuit in Lawrence, a child-care resource and referral agency. They are also participating in a Saturday conference offered by the National Association for the Education of Young Children at Brandeis University and private workshops on behavior management and anti-bias curriculum development.

Children may use a poem or nursery rhyme. For further information, call directors Dana Gum at 474-1014 or Marcelle Gregg at 475-7476.

The summer internship program for selected Andover High School students, made possible in part by grants from the Greater Lawrence Community Foundation and Stevens Foundation, has been judged a success, according to reports received by program director Joyce Ringleb.

The enthusiastic support of the high school staff and cooperating companies, Genetics Institute and Quantic Communications, made this a most rewarding work experience for the student interns participating in the program, Mrs. Ringleb said.

The participating businesses reported that the intern program not only offers students the opportunity to get hands-on experience in the world of work, but also gives an employer some idea of what is available and what to expect from the work force of the future. Both companies felt the experience was a good one and plan to continue their participation in the program.

The students felt a sense of accomplishment and appreciated the opportunity to be an active worker in a professional environment. One student commented that the person working in the mail room holds the company together just as much as the top executive. They all agreed, "Everything was a plus; all this and a paycheck, too."

For more information on the summer intern/work-study program, call Mrs. Ringleb at 475-3490.

Laura L. Seeley

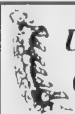

Laura Seeley, award-winning children's book author and Andover native, will visit West Elementary School grades 1 and 5 tomorrow and Monday. Her visits are Friday, Oct. 16, at 1 p.m., with grade 5; and Monday, Oct. 19, at 9 a.m., with grade 1. These visits are one of the cultural events funded by West Elementary PTO. In addition, on Saturday, Oct. 17, she will be at Andover Bookstore from 10 a.m. to noon.

Her book The Magical Moonballs takes off when the kind but lonely man-in-the-moon gets an itch in his nose, which "...twitched in the breeze. Then he shuddered and shivered and sneezed a big sneeze!"

The power of that sneeze bursts open the clouds, which turn into millions of magical moonballs. These pretty pastel mini-moons spill across the sky and tumble into their way into chimneys of sleeping households. Once inside, the messengers of mischief bring their zany cheer to everything from couch cushions to toothbrushes to sweat-socks: "The moonballs kept up with their teases and tickles on twenty-one meatballs and seven dill pickles."

Ms. Seeley was named 1990 Author of the Year for Juvenile Books by the Council of Authors and Journalists for her book The Book of Shadowboxes: A Story of the ABC's.

She has also illustrated Carmen Agra Deedy's Agatha's Feather Bed: Not Just Another Wild Goose Story and Christmas and the Old House by country music star Tom T. Hall.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

A BODY OF KNOWLEDGE

The chiropractic profession places great confidence in the notion that the human body possesses an "innate intelligence" that works to regulate its inner functions. It is the inborn life force that keeps all the body's activities in balance and exerts its healing power when injury or disease occurs. How else do we explain the body's ability to heal a skin wound or mend a broken bone? It is the chiropractor's role to facilitate the body's healing power by removing any obstacles that may stand in the way of its proper functioning. In many cases, this may entail removing impingement in the nervous system which block the instructions that dictate the body's healing which block the instructions that dictate the body's healing effort. By enabling the body to work as it was intended, the chiropractor encourages the body's state of good health.

We believe in working together to help restore and maintain your total health. Chiropractic is safe for infants, children, pregnant women and seniors. If you have a health problem, call us at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. Our office is located at 15 Central Street

P.S. Chiropractic views the body as an integrated network of systems, rather than a number of isolated body parts with symptoms

The Andover High School Marching Band placed first in Division I at its first competition of the year, held at Nicholson Stadium in Methuen.

Andover competed against the Lynnfield High School marching band and came home with additional trophies in all four categories: best drum major, junior Matt Hoots; best color guard, senior Sefany Andreadis, color guard captain; best percussion, freshman Anthony Risitano, sophomores Ben Weiner, Max Soong (drum set), Hakyon Oh and Chris Schardin, junior Amy D’Onofrio (bass guitar) and senior Adam Vella (keyboard); and best music, The Overture to the African Trilogy by Neil Diamond.

Featured soloists were senior Adam Lafond on trumpet, sophomore Ted Friedenson, baritone sax, and junior Amy D’Onofrio, who sang the introduction. Some of the music performed by the schools included pieces from Cats; The Theme from Batman; Porgy and Bess; Beauty and the Beast; and The 1812 Overture.

Nine schools competed in four divisions; overall, Andover finished in third place with a total score of 66.4.

The Andover students reportedly were thrilled with their win and looked upon it as a final tribute to their band director Marc Keroack, who left the school system after eight years. As Marc Elzweg, president of the marching band, said “He was had. We all wish him the best of the best band director we ever

Announcing...

The end of labor movements.

Some hospitals still do things the old-fashioned way—you’re put in common labor room or, if it’s not too busy, you might be moved to a birthing room for labor and delivery. And then you get moved to a different room for recovery. Talk about labor movements.

As the area’s leader in maternity services, Lawrence General Hospital is putting an end to these movements with its totally renovated maternity department. Our new labor, delivery, recovery (LDR) suites means you will experience the entire birthing process in the most comfortable and private environment available—anywhere.

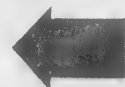

Each new birthing suite has a bathroom with full shower, birthing bed, sleeping chair for your partner, and of course, a television and refrigerator. For added comfort, all medical equipment in the suite is tucked away until needed.

If we’ve moved you to learn more about the new birthing suites at The General, you should visit our upcoming open house. Call (508) 683-4000, ext. 2206, for more information.

In 1492, two worlds collided when Columbus reached the shores of America. The native Americans, whom he dubbed "Indians," had their own view of the world and how it worked, and it was alien to Europeans of that time. Exhibits earlier this year at the R.S. Peabody Museum and the Addison Gallery, on the campus of Phillips Academy, showed these views through artifacts and maps. Andover resident Diane Pitochelli led the production of Maps & Dreams with AHS students Brandon Auchterlonie, Ed Moore and Chad Murphy.

Other programs this week feature the Phillips Academy-based Andover Breadloaf Writing Workshop with South African Teachers. Also occurring locally, at the Wingate at Andover, candidates for Congress squared off for A Congressional Debate: Cronin vs. Meehan.

Creating a Healthy Environment with Health Officer Dan Tremblay visits the "Coastweeks" kick-off at the State House and travels to our beaches for clean-up activities.

The vacuum did it, according to new evidence from a university test of leading vacuums. Which brands were guilty of leaking irritating animal dander into the air? Brands you'd never suspect.

In fact, of all leading vacuums sold in stores, only the Miele was found innocent. Its air-tight engineering and Super Air Clean Filter give it immunity from allergen leakage.

So ask your Miele dealer for a demonstration. Then before you send your pet away, send your vacuum away.

STATE SENATE CANDIDATE JOHN O'BRIEN

On Revitalizing The Merrimack Valley Economy:

"We can no longer think of business and government as two institutions with opposing interests. Our state and local governments must understand that they can play a role in attracting new businesses and creating jobs. I think it is time government started behaving more like a successful business."

"A successful business builds for the future, positions itself well in comparison to its competition and acts quickly and efficiently. Our government, therefore, must first do a better job of educating and training our work force. Second, it must work to accommodate the needs of business by providing such things as infrastructure development and tax incentives. Finally, government must target certain industries or businesses and position our region to attract those employers."

"Government clearly has a role in demanding that businesses behave responsibly. But I think it is time we realized that government and business can no longer act independent of one another. It is often said that the best social program for any individual is a job. Well, government doesn't create jobs, the private sector creates jobs. So government must work to attract and keep businesses. Our livelihood, and that of our children, depends on it."

A quick look at Gary Coon and Ellen Murphy

Gary Coon: Maintaining progress

Gary Coon
Age: 28.

Address: C1 Colonial Drive, Andover.

Education: Bachelor's degree in business management, Babson College.

Job: State representative since 1990.

Personal: Single, born and raised in Andover.

Background: Mr. Coon operated his own business selling water purification filters prior to being elected in 1990.

State Rep. Gary Coon

Reason for running: Remembers the mess Massachusetts was in two years ago with proposed tax increases, no balanced budget and a reputation as the worst managed state in the country, and he wants to make sure it doesn't return to that.

Three major issues: Economic growth/taxes, education, fiscal responsibility.

Economic growth/taxes: Would push for enterprise zones, investment tax credits, phase out of capital gains tax over five or six years and a constitutional amendment requiring a two-thirds vote in both branches of the Legislature before any taxes could be raised in the future. The current administration and Legislature have cut taxes five times in 19 months, i.e., repealed the 5-percent sales tax on business services, instituted a research and development tax credit, reduced the income tax from 6.25 percent to 5.95 percent, phased out the estate tax, and cut the deeds excise tax in half.

Education: Wants the state to take more of a role in improving the quality of education with more resources and favors replacing the current tenure system with one of renewable certification for teachers.

Crime: Wants to lose Massachusetts' liberal image in dealing with crime and has pushed for tougher penalties on car theft.

Welfare: Supports workfare with enterprise zones to provide job opportunities to make Massachusetts an opportunity state, not a welfare state.

Abortion: Supports legalized abortion to 24 weeks, which is consistent with Roe v. Wade.

Term limits: An original signer of the term-limit legislation, he would like to get term limits on the ballot so people can decide whether they want a citizen legislature. This is one of the issues he campaigned on in 1990 and which has not been realized.

Privatization: Favors privatization of poorly managed public services, specifically the Hines Auditorium. This is another campaign issue from two years ago that hasn't seen much success.

Biggest lesson: "The deliberation process," he said. "The length of time it takes for 200 people to make a decision together is frustrating."

Ellen Murphy: Restoring confidence

Ellen T. Murphy
Age: 28.

Address: 28 Johnson Road, Andover.

Education: Master's in Business Administration, University of Virginia.

Job: Former vice president of real estate development firm.

Ellen Murphy

Personal: Single, lives with her mother, Terry Murphy, principal of Shawsheen School and coordinator of special projects for Andover schools.

Background: Spent a summer at the University of Miami's Dade County Hospital analyzing hospital programs, and three years working in real estate development.

Reason for running: Because of a "crisis of confidence in government," and with her recent master's degree and experience in the public and private sectors, she brings a different perspective and broader range of experience to Beacon Hill. She also feels this is an opportune time to run for office.

"I also reject politics and government as usual."

Three major issues: Excellence in education, economic development and public safety.

Education: Local aid funds should be earmarked specifically for public education and more local aid, for schools and in general, should come in a more regular and predictable manner.

She supports Question 5, from the 1990 ballot questions, which called for 40 percent of all state revenues to be returned to cities and towns in the form of local aid. She also supports "outcome-based curriculums," and renewable certification for teachers to keep educators up to date.

Economic development: Competitiveness in Massachusetts is based on an educated and skilled work force. Jobs have been lost that are not coming back to Massachusetts and the state needs to develop job opportunities in new fields in emerging technologies. A partnership must be formed between the public and private sectors such as the Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency, which helps set up financing for businesses and assistance to get jobs for communities.

Public safety: Auto theft and domestic violence can be attacked through court reform, and improved public safety is critical to the revitalization of Lawrence.

Abortion: Pro-choice.

Coon and Murphy talk about PACs, finances

money, according to Ms. Murphy, then 22 days later accepted his first PAC contribution. He is now using PAC money to finance his campaign, she said.

"I think it's difficult to represent the interests of the people of your district when vested interest contributions support your candidacy," Ms. Murphy said.

Rep. Coon disagrees.

"I haven't complained to Ellen about the lawyers, teachers, union members or liberal Democratic activists who voluntarily contribute to her campaign. Who cares?" Rep. Coon said Wednesday. "This is supposed to be a Democracy where, if you are running for office, people can voluntarily support you."

"My problem with my previous opponent was she was leaving people with the impression that she didn't accept contributions from PAC organizations when she did," Rep. Coon said.

"I didn't have a problem that it was

PAC money.

"What matters to me is the way that you vote and whether you're working hard on behalf of your constituents and that's what I'm doing - working hard and doing a good job."

Rep. Coon didn't know the number of PACs that contributed to his campaign or the amounts.

"But it's a small percentage of my overall contributions," he said.

PACs, like individuals, are limited to a maximum of $1,000 in contributions, Rep. Coon pointed out.

Ms. Murphy has also attacked Rep. Coon for spending more money to get re-elected than the $30,000 salary the job pays.

"Runaway campaign spending is an indicator of how you spend your money, taxpayers' money," Ms. Murphy said.

Final campaign spending reports are not due from the candidates until this Friday, but Ms. Murphy said she has raised about $20,000 to date and spent about $15,000 of that. She said Mr. Coon raised $35,000 and spent about $25,000.

But Rep. Coon said that is not the case.

"The reality is, we are both going to raise about the same amount over this campaign," Rep. Coon said.

Ms. Murphy is including money he raised in 1991 and spent on things other than this campaign, Mr. Coon said.

He raised $23,000 to $25,000 in 1991, but about half of that was spent on the cost of raising it, and most of the rest was spent by March of this year on job related expenses such as an education survey he mailed to constituents.

He has raised about $20,000 since Jan. 1 of this year for the campaign, and has spent about $12,000 of that so far.

"She's not comparing apples to apples. She's trying to leave the impression that I have this big war chest, which I don't have," Rep. Coon said.

Asked whether she would spend more than $30,000 if she had it, Ms. Murphy said, "What's the point?"

"I don't think you need to. It's a small district," she said.

People in the district know who she is and know her stand on the issues.

"I think it's unnecessary to fill people's mailboxes with junk mail," she said.

"I think it's a moot issue," Rep. Coon said. "I think we'll probably raise and spend about the same amount."

"While my opponent goes off on a tangent, I'm going to keep talking about the issues that matter to my community like stimulating economic growth, maintaining fiscal responsibility, improving education, public safety issues, etcetera," Rep. Coon said. "Apparently my opponent doesn't want to talk about my actual record of hard work on behalf of economic development, my 'A' voting attendance rating two years in a row, our three balanced budgets without raising taxes without borrowing, the improved bond rating and five tax cuts."

Ms. Murphy will continue to focus on meeting voters and speaking to groups about what she'd like to do in office, she said.

ing match, Marshall Darling, a still undecided voter who is leaning toward Mr. Perot, shouted to be heard.

"It's the same thing - Democrats and Republicans at each other's throats. I've had it up to here," Mr. Darling said, as he raised his hand to his chin to illustrate the level of his frustration.

"I'm sick to death of it. You two have just convinced me who I'm going to vote for," he announced.

In lower voices the three apologized for their outbursts and said their comments should not be taken as personal insults, but rather as opinions on the national parties each represented.

Representing the Democratic Town Committee were Bill Clinton supporters Karen Courtney, chairwoman of the committee; and Mr. LaRochelle.

Mr. Edholm was joined by fellow Republican Town Committee member Hartley Burnham to support George Bush.

Dino Diamondis was the other Ross Perot supporter. He is the volunteer coordinator for the local Perot campaign.

No clear winner here

The group was divided over who won the debate. Mr. Diamondis, Mr. Burnham and Mr. Darling thought Mr. Perot won.

"He said convincingly what I think people want to hear," Mr. Burnham said.

Mr. Edholm said it was the people watching the debate who won. "I didn't see a clear-cut winner," he said. "Perot probably picked up the most. I enjoyed his company more."

"No one scored a decisive blow, but Ross Perot punched it up a bit," he continued. "He still scares me to death and I wouldn't vote for him, but he got the most out of it."

Mr. Diamondis said his candidate, Mr. Perot, handled himself very well.

"The American people for the first time got a chance to see him in a debate situation. He did well and I think people are going to take a second look at him," said Mr. Diamondis.

Ms. Courtney said Gov. Clinton won. "Not hands down, but he won the debate," she said.

She said Mr. Perot came off as a "quick-fix" type and that she was not impressed with his "macho, guns-a-blazing" persona he portrayed.

"I think the American people are too smart for that," she said.

Ms. Courtney agreed with fellow Democrat Mr. LaRochelle that President Bush lost the debate.

"If I closed my eyes it could have been any time between January and May," said Ms. Courtney. (President Bush) "was saying the same things he's said since the beginning of the campaign."

Mr. LaRochelle said Mr. Bush used Republican rhetoric over and over again. "Six times he used the phrase 'tax-and-spend Democrats.' It's the same rhetoric Gary Coon and Paul Cronin are using and I'm sick of it."

Here is a look at the panelists

Republicans

Hartley Burnham
20 Sheridan Road
Retired engineer

He is currently working on John Harris' campaign to be re-elected to the Governor's Council. He also is working on incumbent State Rep. Gary Coon's campaign. Mr. Burnham said he usually votes Republican, but voted for Gov. Dukakis when he ran against Frank Sergeant. Mr. Burnham voted for John F. Kennedy but he was "disappointed when Truman beat Dewey."

Jim Edholm
158 Summer St.
Financial consultant

He has voted Republican since 1978, because he is sick of "tax-and-spend Democrats." Mr. Edholm was formerly the Republican Town Committee treasurer and was also an elector for Ronald Reagan and George Bush during the 1984 campaign. He voted for Ed King. He currently is raising money for Fifth District congressional candidate Paul Cronin and Gary Coon, as well as GOP Congressional candidate Peter Torkildsen. And he said he is giving money to John Harris.

Perot supporters

Dino Diamondis
11 Rutgers Road
Retired manager of graphics arts company

He said he "had to take early retirement because I got caught up in the junk bond frenzy. My company got sold." Two years ago, he stopped looking for work.

Mr. Diamondis is the coordinator for the Perot campaign in Andover. He became a Perot volunteer during the primaries. He said he is dissatisfied with President Bush and Gov. Clinton. Mr. Diamondis organized Tonight was the first time I've ever heard George Bush say more than one sentence about AIDS," said Mr. LaRochelle.

He thought Mr. Perot was "funny," but Mr. LaRochelle said, "There was no meat" to his performance.

An added gasoline tax

Mr. Diamondis agreed with Mr. Perot's proposal to increase the gasoline tax 10 cents each year over the next five years to pay for highway and bridge repairs. That way, said Mr. Diamondis, the people who use the roads will be paying for them.

Ms. Courtney said only rich people like Mr. Perot could afford a 50-cent gas tax.

"Some of us can't afford it," she said. "We are spending too much on defense other local volunteers and collected signatures to have Mr. Perot's name placed on the ballot next month.

Mr. Diamondis said he is an unenrolled voter who usually crosses party lines. In 1988 he didn't vote for Mr. Bush, but this November he said he'll vote for local Republican Gary Coon.

Marshall Darling
26 Pasho St.
Mortgage banker

He has a mixed voting background, having voted for presidential candidates such as Independent John Anderson, Democrat Jerry Brown and George Bush. He said he is "genetically a Republican," but he is unenrolled so he can use his vote in the primary. For instance, in the Sept. 15 primary, he voted against Chet Atkins.

He voted against Gov. Dukakis and early in the discussion after Sunday's debate he said, "I am not sure I am not voting for Bush."

and not enough on domestic problems."

Mr. Edholm said he can't afford the 50-cent gas tax either, but at least the money would be spent for a specific service. The tax would also force the automobile industry to speed up its production of higher-mileage cars and force car buyers to be smarter consumers, he said.

"I'd rather see a $3 tax on cigarettes. Those people use more health care than I do," Mr. Edholm said.

Could Perot be effective?

Mr. LaRochelle believes Mr. Perot truly cares about the nation's problems and that he has some good ideas about how to approach solving them. But he said Mr. Perot couldn't be an effective leader if elected because of the legisla-

Mr. Darling said he is still undecided, but is leaning toward Mr. Perot, especially after Sunday night's debate.

Democrats

Bob LaRochelle
27 Launching Road.
Political and financial consultant

He is currently working for "all the Democrats," and he has "always been a Democrat."

Karen Courtney
72 Chestnut St.
She owns a firm that acts as lobbyist and consultant to unions

She is the chairwoman of the Democratic Town Committee. Ms. Courtney is "a life-long Democrat" who has always voted along party lines. "My father was a teacher and he used to tell us when the Democrats were in, Dad got a raise," she said.

tive system.

Mr. Darling disagreed. (See his letter on page 37 about Ross Perot.) He said Mr. Perot is the only candidate not hooked into the political machine and he would not have to "pander" to either Democrats or Republican lawmakers to get things done.

"He'd have to pander to all of them," responded Mr. Edholm.

Mr. Diamondis believes it will be a "win-win situation" if Mr. Perot is elected.

"Change will happen if we have effective leadership. Congress will cooperate," he said.

It is Mr. Perot's leadership style that scares Mr. Edholm.

"I don't think he has the tempera-

Bob LaRochelle, member of the Democratic Town Committee and a member of congressional candidate Marty Meehan's campaign staff:

"As a result of last night, Perot is out of the picture completely," Mr. LaRochelle said.

People look at Admiral Stockdale's performance and say, if anything ever happened to Mr. Perot, we'd be in trouble, according to Mr. LaRochelle.

But the Perot people have brought up some good issues in terms of getting a balanced budget and getting the economy going again, he said.

"Dan Quayle wants people to talk about things other than jobs and the economy," like all the Republicans, Mr. LaRochelle said. "They're trying to turn attention away from the real issues."

VP Quayle said the Republicans won't raise taxes, but the deficit continues to go up, Mr. LaRochelle said.

"They've been borrowing the money instead of taxing," he said.

"I think Gore won the debate," Mr. LaRochelle said. "Gore showed that he's presidential material. He's very well spoken and knows what the issues are."

People really look for that in a vice president in case something happens to the president, he said.

"They look at Dan Quayle as someone they'd be very uncomfortable with as president," he said. "Quite frankly, he looked silly, defensive, worried. I don't think he looked presidential at all."

"I think Gore's biggest point was his criticism of George Bush's dirty trick on Clinton visiting Russia," Mr. LaRochelle said.

News Wednesday morning that the U.S. State Department has been investigating Bill Clinton's activities overseas when he was a Rhodes Scholar 23 years ago fits with what George Bush promised in this campaign, Mr. LaRochelle said.

'As a result of last night, Perot is out of the picture completely.'

Bob LaRochelle

"George Bush said many months ago, 'I'll do whatever I have to do to win this election.' At least he's keeping his word on this," Mr. LaRochelle said.

Jim Edholm, member of the Republican Town Committee:

Mr. Edholm only watched part of the debate, but thought Dan Quayle did well compared to four years ago.

"Quayle looked like a human being instead of a robot," he said. "He was more relaxed, more comfortable, more exciting."

"It was too bad that Admiral Stockdale didn't get more into it. He seems to be an intelligent guy, but seems to be uncomfortable and unable to express his ideas," Mr. Edholm said.

VP Quayle created a new buzz word when he said, "I think you pulled a Bill Clinton," to Sen. Gore. Mr. Edholm said.

"I think that will stick. I think everyone's going to remember this one," he said.

"I think Quayle effectively pointed out Gore's extremist environmental positions, and that he is on the far fringe of the environmental movement to the point of costing jobs," Mr. Edholm said. "I think Quayle did quite well."

He also thought Quayle did very well in pointing out Clinton's waffling on issues.

"If Bush had been as inconsistent, you guys in the media would have been all over him," Mr. Edholm said.

Americans ultimately realize that they don't know enough about economics to say which plan will work the best, and that a plan won't resemble what is being proposed by the time it gets through Congress anyway.

"Ultimately, what we have to bet on is the individual," Mr. Edholm said. "Can I live with him or her as my congressman for the next four years? Can I live with him or her as my president for the next four years? Character is the cutting issue. It's the defining issue of the campaign."

"I think Quayle did a good job of bringing this up," Mr. Edholm said.

Mary Byrne-Potvin, Democrat and director of Andover Council on Aging:

"I had to leave the room I got so upset about Stockdale. I felt so sorry for him. I just thought it was awful, so humiliating," Ms. Byrne-Potvin said.

If she was thinking of voting for Ross Perot, which she wasn't, she certainly couldn't after that show, said.

"I like Al Gore, in fact I wish Al Gore was the presidential candidate," she said.

She thought Vice President Quayle was rude, out of control and very evasive.

"I didn't understand why Gore didn't go after Quayle on the Contra thing," she said, because of the way the Republicans keep bringing up character issues. "I think that Al Gore was trying to be a gentleman," she said.

"I really was not greatly impressed with the whole thing," she said.

But it was more interesting than the presidential candidates' debate Sunday night, she said.

Susan Tucker, 6 Farrwood Drive, Democrat and former state representative:

Ms. Tucker believes Sen. Gore "clearly" won the debate, but she was impressed with the improvement in Vice President Quayle's performance in 1988.

"Ross Perot was the real looser," she said.

"It was uncomfortable to watch Stockdale. It is the person at top that matters most, but you also have to look at the whole package. You get a sense of that man by who he chooses as his second."

Ms. Tucker described the exchanges between Sen. Gore and VP Quayle as "coming close to a kindergarten brawl."

"One thing the American people hate is a lack of passion and theater, but it is a very fine line between theater and immaturity and sniping. It's hard to say if they crossed that line. Sometimes they looked like kindergartners," she said.

Ms. Tucker was disappointed with Sen. Gore and VP Quayle for repeatedly stretching the truth. If viewers are not familiar with how each side voted and what people have really said and done in the past, they can be terribly misled, she said.

"Both took kernels of truth of different issues and twisted them, omitting the many other sides and subtleties. The result was misrepresentations of many issues," she said.

Rosalie Bialy, 3 Danforth Circle, member of Democratic Town Committee:

Ms. Bialy only caught 15 minutes of the debate, but during that time she said she saw the process disintegrate into a "name calling and bashing" display.

"I wished they would stick to the issues. Gore tried to do that when he gave his opinions, but they all name called," she said.

Bob Manning, 4 Longwood Drive, chairman of town Republican Committee:

Mr. Manning believes VP Quayle was the clear winner in Tuesday night's debate. The vice president showed a passion and enthusiasm, he said.

"Dan Quayle showed the tenacity and aggressiveness he needed. He attacked both Clinton and Gore on their weakest points, credibility with the American people, and he clearly demonstrated he has a grasp of the issues and is a capable leader," he said.

Mr. Manning thought Mr. Gore looked like "a standing tape recorder." Mr. Gore's answers appeared rehearsed and the candidate came across as insincere, he said.

Mr. Manning believes Admiral Stockdale hurt the credibility of the Perot campaign.

"No one can question (Admiral Stockdale's) courage or his commitment to this country, but he is not prepared or qualified to be one heartbeat away from the presidency of the United States."

"Perot's decision to put him in that position, to send him to the wolves in a debate forum, shows a flaw in the decision-making process of Ross Perot," Mr. Manning said.

Sean Quinn, assistant chairman of the Andover Center Association and manager of the Strawberry Tree gift store:

Mr. Quinn, a Republican, believes the debate Tuesday night wasn't as informative as the presidential debate Sunday night.

"There was a lot of political one-upmanship going on. It was a lot of junk," he said.

Whatever ground Mr. Perot gained Sunday was lost by Admiral Stockdale, Mr. Quinn said.

"Admiral Stockdale might be an intelligent guy, but he came off like Ronald Reagan in his later years. He gave the impression that he wasn't on the ball," he said.

Mr. Quinn said Senator Gore appeared very polished and had an agenda of points to make and he made them.

"Quayle was offhand. He strayed away from answering some questions and didn't have precise answers for others and I think that may have hurt him," he said.

Sunday's debate . . .

ment to deal with compromise. One of the words that came to mind when I was watching (Mr. Perot) tonight was Nazi and bully," Mr. Edholm said.

"That's not fair," shot back Mr. Diamondis.

Mr. Darling also came to Mr. Perot's defense.

"That's fearmongering," he told Mr. Edholm.

"To be a Nazi you have to have a country behind you going 'zig hiel' and that's not the case. (Mr. Perot) has got to be real, because nobody would put up with the insults that have been thrown at him the way he has," Mr. Darling said.

"I'm not saying he's a Nazi," said Mr. Edholm. "I'm just saying he came off as a bully."

Mr. Edholm Ross Perot would not be an effective president because "He has always been able to have his own way because he owned the store...That's not the way" the U.S. government works, said Mr. Edholm.

Mr. Edholm was just as tough on Gov. Clinton.

"Every 12 years we need a failed governor of a small southern state to remind us that we need a Republican president," he said.

By the end of the evening, the panelists said the debate and the discussion following it had not changed their votes for the Nov. 3 election. Mr. Darling, the only uncommitted panelist, said he was more certain than ever that he wouldn't vote for President Bush or Gov. Clinton.

Try a little TQM here

Andover teachers on the contract negotiating team and members of the School Committee negotiation team could benefit from Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski and St. Augustine's School Principal Marie Galinski's experience with Total Quality Management.

TQM's approach is to involve everybody in an organization in making improvements to provide a higher quality product or service.

At St. Augustine's, applying that philosophy has been, in one instance, as simple as asking faculty, staff and students to discuss food services at the school. That done, the school made the changes that it could, and everyone is happier.

We are not surprised to hear that Mr. Stapczynski has been using TQM for a year because it is not uncommon around town to hear how pleased people are that they have access to the town manager, that he hears them and that he tries to do something about residents' needs.

Now switch to teacher contract negotiations. Just because there was some yelling between a teacher and a School Committee member, and because a meeting involving negotiations was cancelled, teachers say they don't know if the School Committee is bargaining in good faith. Nonsense.

And when the teachers say they approached the school board with a different kind of negotiating - integrative bargaining, which North Andover successfully used - the School Committee responds by saying integrative bargaining was never brought up. Nonsense. Just try it; don't get stuck on the details of when and/or if it was approached.

Contract negotiators on both sides are getting stuck on who said what, when. Try listening to the other side. Try a little TQM.

In the meantime, both sides must listen to teachers who admit that contract negotiations and the work slowdown by teachers is hurting the children. "This action only hurts the kids and it's so important to set a good tone at the beginning of the year," said one teacher.

This is the group of Andover residents who gathered at the Townsmen offices Sunday to watch the presidential debate and then to discuss it. From left they are, Hartley Burnham, who is voting for George Bush; Jim Edholm, also a Bush supporter; Dino Diamondis, who is running Ross Perot's campaign in Andover; Bob LaRochelle, a Democrat who is voting for Gov. Clinton; Karen Courtney, chairwoman of the Andover Democratic Town Committee, who also is voting for Clinton; and Marshall Darling, who is leaning toward Perot but is still undecided.

This was democracy at its best

By Perry Colmore Catlin

Our job at the Townsmen is to cover the topic from the Andover point of view. We leave national issues to the daily newspapers unless we cover them from the local angle. We are the only newspaper anywhere that covers Andover only.

With that in mind, we decided to watch the first presidential debate, last Sunday, with two Andover residents who support President Bush, two who support Gov. Clinton and two who support Ross Perot.

We found our guests by phoning the town political committees and by phoning Dino Diamondis, the man who is in charge of the Andover-for-Perot campaign, and asking them to send two people each - their choice - for a debate about the debate. Oh yes, I had run into Marshall Darling, told him about our plans, and he asked to attend.

Our debate at the Townsmen was more lively than that on the TV. In fact, at one point, it got a little out of control. But it was democracy at its best and after everyone cooled down, I believe we all learned from one another.

It was interesting to watch our panelists. Mr. Diamondis took no notes as far as I could tell. Hartley Burnham (for Bush) had very neat notes, and he used them during our discussion after the TV debate.

Democrat Bob LaRochelle pointed out that the Democrats were the only ones who chose to have a woman on the panel at the Townsmen - Karen Courtney, a lobbyist who is chairwoman of the Town Democratic Committee.

All of the six were very articulate. The "fight" came over the president's use of the phrase "tax-and-spend Democrats." Republican Jim Edholm and Democrat LaRochelle had a short yelling match over that, and Perot-supporter Marshall Darling got up to leave over the altercation, saying he was sick of dueling over words instead of issues. That finished, we settled into an inspiring, good discussion.

One of the most interesting parts of the evening occurred when we went around the table and asked each person to talk about his or her job and to say how they have been involved in politics and who they voted for in past elections. Read reporter Lisa Boudreau's story that begins on page one for that news.

One of the most interesting biographies is that of Republican Hartley Burnham, who told a story that he said illustrates why he usually votes with the GOP. A retired engineer, Mr. Burnham said when he was 16 his father died. He lived in Malden. "I was good in school, so good that I was solicited to go to MIT. I couldn't do it. I ended up at General Electric," where he made $13 a week as an apprentice electrician. He said his mother came from a background where a woman doesn't work.

"We didn't have enough money to eat," Mr. Burnham told us.

Then some "young fella" did some "job action" and Mr. Burnham was temporarily out of a job. He couldn't get back into the apprentice program after the slow down and in those days there was no welfare. "So I saw that side," said Mr. Burnham.

Now he has been retired seven years and his income is half of what it was when he was working. "If

Board answers the teachers

To the editor:

The anger that surfaced at the Oct. 5 School Committee meeting is regrettable. It is also understandable. Like the teachers, the Andover School Committee is frustrated.

Andover's teachers have been without a contract for one month. But they act as if they have been ignored and undervalued by the School Committee, but this is not the case. No matter how often the School Committee states our appreciation of our teachers, they have shown little willingness to understand the economic dilemmas facing the town of Andover. The Andover Education Association and their bargaining team have dismissed our efforts.

There has not been a prompt settlement, not for lack of respect for our teachers, but because there are many competing needs. These needs go well beyond wages. Among the many problems facing Andover are maintaining low pupil-teacher ratios, addressing neglect to our school buildings and rejuvenating our curriculum for the benefit of our children's education.

We believe the AEA has refused to acknowledge the fact that the Massachusetts economy is in the worst shape it has been for many, many years. The revenue forecasts for the town of Andover offer little hope of increases in our operating budget.

We have stretched dollars to add new staff and to maintain reasonable pupil-teacher ratios. We have raised transportation fees to save teaching positions. We have worked vigorously to secure safe and healthful school buildings for our employees and children. We have invested in new programs and staff development training to keep ourselves current with innovations in education.

And we are prepared to continue to bargain in good faith, despite the A.E.A.'s denunciations to the contrary.

We wish to emphasize that the School Committee intends to continue to bargain in good faith. We believe that the climate of antagonism is both unnecessary and unproductive. We respect our teachers and will continue to do so. Respect cannot always be translated into dollars.

Murphy declines PAC money

Editor, Townsmen:

As I embark upon the challenge to represent the citizens of this district on Beacon Hill, I believe that the blame for ineffective government is due, in substantial part, to the insidious role of special-interest money.

Campaign finance reform is long overdue and I will be a strong supporter of opening up the system as your representative in the Legislature. Beyond that, I will preserve the independence of this seat by refusing to take PAC money now or in any future bid for reelection to this seat.

Two years ago, the headline in the Andover Townsman read "Coon accuses Tucker of accepting PAC money." To date, the incumbent Republican representative has taken 28 contributions from political action committees.

Two weeks ago, I called upon my opponent to join with me in a sensible spending cap for this race. Last week, through the Republican Town Committee, we were told that politics as usual is the order of the day. The letter deflected the issue without responding to it.

Today, I challenge Mr. Coon to give back the PAC money and refuse to accept more. Let us show our leadership. Let us show that the state rep. from this district is on Beacon Hill to represent the people and not the "interests!"

While campaigning for higher offices presents significantly different financial requirements, this district is a small geographical area with ample opportunity to meet and reach the voters without excessive campaign spending. Spiraling campaign spending has not improved the level of discourse nor has it produced a satisfactory state government.

There are people who give to a candidate out of friendship or loyalty and there are those who give because they share a candidate's belief about an issue or the role of government. However, many contributions, particularly PAC contributions, are "investments." Investments in access, priorities, votes and amendments.

I want to represent the people of Andover and Lawrence and will represent their interests, first and foremost. I challenge my opponent to help create an environment in which the elected representative is independent and not under any influence from PAC contributors. For whomever wins, it will certainly be the citizens of the district.

I would welcome a forum on campaign financing reform. I would also welcome a direct response from the Republican incumbent, himself. The system is obviously broken. Perhaps we can help fix a part of it, here and now.

Ellen T. Murphy
candidate for state rep.

Ross Perot makes sense

Editor, Townsmen:

I think you should look at Ross Perot closely and not reject him until you've read his book and listened closely to his ideas. They make real sense.

My family is traditionally Republican but I have registered independent all my voting life. My view of the world has always been from the employer's side of the desk, but I've also worked as a minimum-wage laborer and can relate to the employee's side.

The country's been on a "get-it-from-the-government" binge for 40 years, but all my beliefs say "you don't get anything for nothing." There is a price to be paid for all of the choices made in this life. If you get a welfare paycheck, your job is to stand in lines and be humiliated. If you are a "Rockefeller," your job is to be permanently responsible for all your employees as well as your own family. Daily survival is the name of the game, right? At the lowest end of the pecking order, survival is your only responsibility. From the pizza parlor to Perot, the business owner has the responsibility for the survival of many as well as his own. The conflicts in this world have always arisen because self-interest dominates when a group or an individual's survival is threatened. I don't feel threatened by Perot's self interests.

I'm listening to this little man because it seems to me that his "self" and his survival are not tripping over each other. He has money and, except for his drive to implement his vision, he could just stay home, clip coupons and forget about all of the world's cares.

He has no reason to run this gauntlet of media inspection and insults. Any man who is willing to make that sacrifice must, at the very least, be given a chance to speak and we better listen so we can make up our own minds.

I am drawn to Ross Perot because, with all his faults, he has some unique strengths. He doesn't have to pander to anyone to raise money. This is the only man in the political arena who can take his ideas, force them to the floor of Congress and take the heat to get them passed. He could care less about being the head man for "four more years"; he just wants to get in and then out, balancing the national checkbook before the Arabs, Dutch and Germans, the holders of our bonds, foreclose on this country.

He is the quintessential maverick; the independent that we Americans all say we want to run the show. Well, folks, here he is, warts and all. He's not cute, his voice grates and the south Texas twang does hurt sensitive northern ears but the man is talking real sense.

There has never been a larger turnover in the two houses in the history of the country. The incumbents managed to get back in; better listen to the wake-up call of the American voters, which is change your spending habit or else. And the people who replaced those not re-elected will be there because of "change" platforms. A Congress made up like that will be ready, willing and able to try Perot's ideas.

We know what the other two are all about and few of us are happy with the choice we face. We might have to hold our nose and vote for one of them, but I'm more inclined to leave it blank or punch up the libertarian man-in-protest.

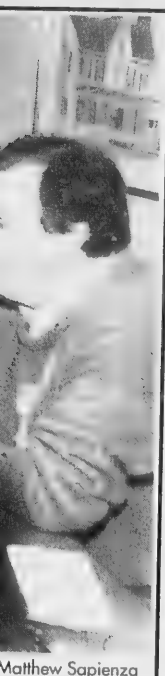

If you haven't read Perot's book, do so. Learn about the man. He is the future.

Marshall Darling

taxes in Andover go up very much more I will have to leave or be subsidized in some way," said Mr. Burnham.

I am grateful to the six who shared their evening with the Townsmen; it was enlightening.

Now we are setting up another night to watch a presidential debate at the Townsmen: next Monday, Oct. 19. Just to be different, this time we are looking for people who are "less political" than this group was. We are looking for the same mix of six: two who are pretty sure they support George Bush, two for Gov. Clinton, and two who think they will vote for Ross Perot. Or someone who is still on the fence would do, too.

Please call me or any other editorial person at the Townsmen - 475-1943 - and we'll set up another community discussion.

In addition, for the same reason that we asked six people to sit on Sunday's panel, we ask that any Andover resident who wishes, to send in, or drop by, or fax (470-2819) a short note saying who you are voting for and why in no more than three sentences. That's always interesting because readers will know many of the people who send in their vote and in a community, that helps us understand the issues and it promotes discussion and thought about this very important election.

But hurry. Your votes are due Mondays, Oct. 19 and 26, at 5 p.m.

Cellist plans workshop at PA

The Phillips Academy Music Department will present Rodney Farrar, guest clinician and cellist, on Friday, Oct. 16, at 4 p.m. and again at 7 p.m., in the Timken Recital Room at Graves Hall.

Mr. Farrar of Lexington, Ky., has been a professional cellist for more than 15 years. His career has ranged from symphony, chamber music and solo recital performance to university teaching and private instruction for students of a wide range of ages and levels. He has a particular interest in the teaching of children and brings a combination of love, enthusiasm and creativity to that teaching. He has appeared as guest clinician at a number of string teaching workshops and institutes around the United States and Canada each year.

Mr. Farrar has begun adding to his usual workshop fare techniques such as singing while playing, drumming on the cello, playing it as a big guitar and encouraging improvised sounds within a certain ensemble format or harmonic structure. He says, "The response in recent workshops to these new directions has been tremendous and we look forward to some exciting new experiences for our young cellists at this workshop at PA."

In the 4 p.m. workshop cello students from the town and PA community will play music of Johann Sebastian Bach, Max Bruch and Antonin Dvorak. In the 7 p.m. session Mr. Farrar will work with four PA students playing Franz Schubert's String Quartet No. 13 in a minor, D. 804.

For more information, call the music department at 749-4263.

Poet to read here Sunday

Helena Minton will read Sunday, Oct. 18, selections from her own poetry and the works of others in the "Tea at Three" at Andover Books and Prints.

Ms. Minton, whose father was a writer, grew up with an interest in literature that was fired by the writings of Wallace Stevens, William Carlos Williams and Elizabeth Bishop. Her own verse, she says, is not written in traditional poetic form, but is "mostly free verse; mostly lyric; mostly short; mostly personal." She has published widely, most recently as a contributor to Merrimack (Loom Press), an anthology of the works of 54 local poets. She has also published two books of her works, The Canal Bed (1985) and Personal Effects.

Last year, her poem "Diver at the Y" won an award from the New England Poetry Club. A former teacher at ULowell and Northeastern University, Ms. Minton has a bachelor of arts in engineering, a master's in fine arts in creative writing (UMass) and a master's of library science (Simmons). She is a reference librarian at the Peabody Institute Reference Library and lives in Andover.

Andover's Jen Batts, in the plaid skirt, tries to move past two opponents deep in Methuen territory. The Lady Warriors struggled and lost to Methuen, 1-0, for the first time in five years.

Lady W's winless in last five games due to lack of offense

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High varsity field hockey team continued to struggle last week, losing to Methuen for the first time in five years, 1-0, and battling to a 2-2 tie with a Haverhill team that had scored just two goals in its first nine Merrimack Valley Conference games.

Those results left the Lady Warriors winless through five games, 2-6-2 overall, and looking up at everyone except Tewksbury in the MVC standings.

Andover's downfall has been its offense, which had produced just 12 goals in the first 10 games. On the other side of the ball, the defense had allowed only 21 goals (2.1 average per game).

Senior forward and Co-Captain Jen Batts continues to lead the team in scoring, boasting six goals (half the team total) and 11 points through games last week.

Coach Sandy Lunt's squad tried to get back on track early this week against non-league neighbor North Andover and Chelmsford.

Powerful league leader Wilmington (8-1-0) is in town this afternoon for a 3:30 p.m. game, and next Monday Andover travels to Tewksbury (3:30).

In Methuen's 1-0 decision, Keri Tombarelli's rebound goal midway through the second half spoiled an otherwise strong performance by AHS junior netminder Tanielle Smith.

Smith finished with 13 saves as the Rangers outgunned Andover 14-5.

Against Haverhill Jen Batts and senior forward Sarah Witham netted second-half goals for Andover, which salvaged the tie on another strong effort from Tanielle Smith who stopped more than 20 Hillies' shots.

Senior forward Sarah Wallace set up Batts' sixth goal of the season, while Batts assisted on Witham's third.

Haverhill finished with a 25-10 shooting edge.

Gridders pound Dracut High, 42-6

By Rick Harrison

Through the years Andover High football teams have always been known for their quick-strike ability.

That fact was not lost on veteran Dracut High Head Coach Ed Murphy, who has been burned by his share of Golden Warrior fireworks during his 47-year career with the Middies.

"Andover is the type of club you can out-gain and out-defense all night long, and then they'll beat you with the long bomb or the break-away run," said Murphy prior to last week's game. "You never feel safe when you play an Andover team."

Dracut did not come close to out-gaining or out-defending the Golden Warriors this year, but they did feel the sting of Andover's quick-strike capabilities as the locals exploded for the second straight week en route to a 42-6 Merrimack Valley Conference romp at Beaudry Field.

For the second straight week five different players scored touchdowns, and for the second straight week senior halfback Steve Shepard led the way with two TDs.

Quarterback Jeff Brammer notched his second touchdown of the season, and tallying for the first time were senior fullback Alan Guibord, junior scatback Matt Wolcott and senior halfback Rod Lumley.

For the second week in a row Andover wasted no time establishing its superiority, racing to a 14-0 first quarter lead and extending it to a prohibitive 28-0 margin by halftime.

The lopsidedness of the game was a surprise, considering what had happened in the first three weeks of the campaign.

Andover, now 2-1-0 overall and tied for second place behind undefeated Billerica (4-0-0), had 40 points last week against struggling Lawrence but had been shut out by quality opponent Methuen in the season opener.

Dracut, although winless in three prior starts, played strong defense in two of the losses to Lowell (10-7) and Central Catholic (12-7).

Coach Murphy had indicated those two games took a physical toll on the smaller Middies, who were pounded by both Lowell and Central.

"We only go 15 or 16 players deep," noted Murphy. "If we get a few key people bruised and banged up we're in trouble, and even when we're healthy the bigger teams wear us down by the fourth quarter."

Strategy error

The Middies appear to have made a mistake in strategy by postponing the game due to heavy rains last Friday night.

Three other MVC games went on as scheduled that evening, and it seemed to be to Dracut's advantage to play Andover under adverse weather conditions. The slippery field presumably would have slowed down the Warriors' talented skill players.

"I was very surprised when they called and said the game was off," admitted Andover Head Coach Dick Collins last Friday. "I thought for sure they'd rather play us on the wet turf."

The easy victory also stretched Andover's domination of Dracut through 11 years, during which time the Warriors have not lost to the Middies.

Junior quarterback Brammer opened the floodgates early, scoring on a one-yard plunge three plays after a pass interception and return inside the Dracut 10.

Scott Henry, a perfect 5-for-5 in conversion attempts (nine for the season), toed the extra point and the Warriors were off to the races.

Steve Shepard dominated the next series, a crisp four-play, 73-yard drive that featured a 17-yard burst and 50-yard scoring scamper by the big (6'1", 195 pounds), mobile and fast athlete.

Henry again converted for a 14-0 first quarter lead.

Guibord's back

The Warriors drove half the length of the field in six plays early in the second period, and it was "Welcome Back Alan Guibord" as

No conference championship this year for AHS golfers

By Rick Harrison

The young and talented Andover High golf team will not win a Merrimack Valley Conference championship this fall.

But, with just one senior on the roster, there is little doubt the Warriors will be a force on the links for the next several years.

Coach Bob Lawson's crew fell out of contention last week following losses to undefeated division leaders Chelmsford and Methuen.

There were also lopsided victories over Billerica (9-3) and Dracut (8-1), but the four match split left AHS at 9-3-0 overall and three full matches behind Large School Division leader Chelmsford (12-0-0) with three remaining.

Andover, which wraps up the regular season with matches against Greater Lawrence Regional, Billerica and Central Catholic, can still make some noise at the MVC Individual Championships next Tuesday and the State Individual and Team Qualifying Rounds to be played next month.

Andover-Methuen

Senior Co-Captain Justin Hesenius was the only individual match winner for Andover, beating mighty Methuen's Tim Ouellette 2-and-1 while playing at No. 3.

Junior Co-Captain Greg LeBreck halved his match at No. 1 against the Rangers' Jim Doherty, and he was also the Warriors' medalist with a sharp even-par 35 at Merrimack Valley Golf Club in Methuen.

Freshman Jeff Mazza and junior Mark Escott also played well for AHS, which managed one best ball point in the 6-1/2 to 2-1/2 loss to Small School leader Methuen.

Andover, 9-3

Billerica couldn't keep pace with the Warriors, who were led by co-medalists Justin Hesenius and sophomore Mike Trombly.

Hesenius and Trombly fired matching three over 38's in their nine-hole clashes, while both were also 2-and-1 individual winners.

Other victors were at opposite ends of the line up, No. 1 Greg LeBreck, freshman No. 2 Dave Shaffer, No. 7 Mark Escott and junior No. 8 Mike Mazza.

The Golden Warriors completed their scoring by taking three of the four best ball points.

Andover-Chelmsford

Last year's MVC Large School Division co-champs engaged in another nailbiter, with Chelmsford handing the Warriors their first loss at Indian Ridge Country Club in more than two years.

Greg Federico led the way for the Lions, earning medalist honors with a four-over 40.

The triumph gave Coach Jim Moriarty's Lions a sweep of the season series, the earlier win 7-1/2 to 4-1/2 at Apple Country Club, and their third victory over AHS in the last four showdowns.

AHS volleyball team's future looks bleak

By Rick Harrison

After scrambling to get back to the .500 mark the previous week, the Andover High girls' varsity volleyball team virtually eliminated itself from post-season tournament consideration after consecutive 2-0 losses to Dracut, Billerica and Lowell last week.

The triple dip left the Lady Warriors at 4-7 overall, fifth in the Merrimack Valley Conference Large School Division and five matches behind first place Chelmsford (9-2).

After an anticipated breather earlier this week against Methuen, it's back into the fire today at undefeated Small School leader Lawrence High.

Next Monday Chelmsford will be at the Dunn Gymnasium, and the season wraps up with Haverhill, Tewksbury, Wilmington and powerhouse Dracut at the annual Chelmsford Volleyball Night Oct. 29.

AHS would have to win five of its last seven matches to avoid its first losing season in several years.

Dracut trimmed Andover 15-8,

15-6 with senior Melissa Minot and senior Captain Kerry Hagerty the standouts for AHS.

Hagerty, Minot and Sarah Tully were the top players in a 15-9, 16-14 setback to Billerica.

Hagerty made it 3-for-3 with another solid showing against Lowell, but the Red Raiders were sharp en route to their 15-4, 15-8 sweep at the high-ceiling Riddick Field House. Rebecca Goldenberg, elevated from the junior varsity team, also played well.

Andover JV's

The Lady Warriors' junior varsity, 9-2 overall, won three straight last week.

Andover swept Dracut 15-10, 15-10 behind the strong all-around play of Kim Daher, Stephanie Casey and Katie Jurdi.

The Young Warriors also nudged Billerica, 2-1, behind the fine performances of Alyson Shea, Annmarie Hussey, Jurdi and Casey.

In a 2-0 sweep of Lowell it was Casey, Hussey and Daher leading the way.

Three Andover residents play football for Governor Dummer Academy

Three Andover residents have helped get the Governor Dummer Academy varsity football team off to a quick 2-0-0 start with victories over Phillips Exeter Academy (21-15) and Thayer Academy (28-7).

Local players on the team are senior two-way back John Shea (6'1", 210 pounds), senior linebacker Jason Benedict (6'2", 210), sophomore wide receiver Dave Kelmer (6', 180) and sophomore guard Tim Gould (6', 190).

GDA has been a prep-private school powerhouse the past three years, finishing 7-1-0 last fall en route to the Independent School League (ISL) title. The Governors were also New England Prep School Class A runners-up.

Shea, Benedict and Kelmer are all two-way starters for Coach Paul Sullivan's crew. 20-4-0 overall the past three seasons, while Gould is a top reserve.

John Shea was the Defensive Player-of-the-Game against Exeter, registering a pair of quarterbacks sacks among his tackles.

Benedict had a host of tackles to earn the same honor against Thayer the following week, while Shea was named co-Offensive Player against Thayer with 107 yards rushing in 10 carries including a 38 yard TD run.

Kelmer is the only impact sophomore on the squad, playing both

Ed Kelley named assistant women's basketball coach at Merrimack College

Ed Kelley of Andover, who has served as both a head coach and assistant coach at the high school and collegiate levels, has been named assistant women's basketball coach at Merrimack College, effective immediately.

The appointment, which is on a volunteer basis, was announced by Merrimack director of athletics Robert DeGregorio.

Kelley, who resides at 158 Shawsheen Road, most recently served as assistant women's hoop coach at Emmanuel College in Boston, helping the Saints achieve the No. 1 ranking in New England Division III in 1991 and a berth in the ECAC Division III championship game.

Before his stint at Emmanuel, Kelley was head women's basketball coach at Northern Essex Community College in Haverhill.

Ed also served as an assistant women's basketball coach at Pine Manor College in Chestnut Hill from 1983 to '87.

A teacher in the Lowell school system since 1964, Kelley served as the head girls' basketball coach at Andover High from 1981 to '83, leading the Lady Warriors to consecutive winning seasons and a berth in the Massachusetts state tournament.

He previously served as assistant boys' basketball coach at Andover High (1974-82) and worked in a similar capacity at Lowell High (1965-74).

Kelley served as co-director of the Hoop Mountain Basketball School at Northfield-Mt. Hermon prep school in 1987 and '88, and has been a clinician and lecturer at several camps in the area including the Boston College Basketball School and Pine Tree Camp.

Kelley becomes the second newly appointed assistant to head coach Debbie Cogan's staff. Former Nichols College head coach Ann McInerney joined the Lady Warrior program in September.

"Ed's knowledge and experience will be an asset," said DeGregorio. "He has a proven track record of success and is well-respected throughout the region."

Ed and his wife Ann Marie have three children: Ted, Patrick and Dick. All three played basketball at Andover High, while Patrick also played a year at Lowell High. Ted graduated from Boston College, where he captained the Eagles' Division I team as a senior, while Dick graduated from Northeastern University and is currently the assistant sports information director at Boston College.

By Rick Harrison

Brian Twomey is back.

The Andover High boys' cross country senior quad-captain shared top billing with graduated Ryan Morgan last year, but surgery over the summer had placed a few question marks next to his name this fall.

Twomey used the first few meets this season to work himself back into shape, finishing among the top 10 in each of the first three races.

Last week Brian's "comeback" was completed when he ran to his first individual victory this year, outkicking teammate Erik Dahlstrand by 10 seconds over Methuen's 2.7 mile course to lead the Golden Warriors to a tri-meet sweep over Billerica and the host Rangers.

The AHS boys squared their record at 3-3-0, moving past Andover resident Mike Granfield's Billerica team (2-3-1) into a tie for third place in the Merrimack Valley Conference Large School Division following wins over Methuen (20-40) and Billerica (27-30).

The Andover girls, meanwhile, rode a strong second place finish by senior Tri-Captain Amanda Holmes to a split of their tri-meet.

The Lady Warriors, 2-4-0 overall, belted winless Methuen 18-45 and dropped a tight 26-30 decision to Billerica.

Coach Leo Lafond's squads returned to MVC competition yesterday against Tewksbury's twin powers, the girls' team 4-0-0 as a league co-leader (with Lowell) and the boys 4-1-0 entering the meet.

Saturday Andover treks across town to battle Phillips Academy (1 p.m.), whose boys' team features former AHS standout and current PA post graduate Ryan Morgan.

Next Wednesday the Andover boys run against Central Catholic and Lawrence High, while the girls oppose Lawrence.

Andover boys sweep

Brian Twomey crossed the line in 14:58 to lead four Warriors into the top 10.

Senior Quad-Captain Erik Dahlstrand was second in 15:08, junior Kevin Sharkey eighth in 15:42 and junior Nick Zammuto 10th in 15:47.

Also running well for Andover, and figuring in the final scoring, were sophomore Mark Adams in 11th place (15:48), freshman prospect Charlie Russo in 12th place (15:49) and senior Quad-Captain Dave Gardner in 14th place (15:57).

Andover girls split

No one came close to individual winner Laura Traynham of Billerica, who covered Methuen's 2.7 mile course in 17:37.

But Amanda Holmes won the battle for second place by 10 seconds, clocking 18:30 to beat back the challenge of third-place Billerica finisher Melissa Thomas (18:40).

The Lady Warriors placed three more warriors in the top 10, with senior Tri-Captain Heather Holman fifth (18:49), junior Amanda Grasso seventh (19:01) and senior Diane Ellsworth 10th (19:46).

Andover High pounds Dracut on the gridiron, 42-6

last year's super back scored on a four-yard run.

It was Guilford's first points since the eighth game of last season, a 19-10 loss to Chelmsford, when he went down with an injury after scoring 10 touchdowns (60 points) and rushing for more than 700 yards in the first seven games.

Late in the half Matt Wolcott displayed his quickness and elusiveness, knifing through the line on a fourth-and-short dive play and finding daylight for a 38-yard TD run.

Henry booted his fourth straight PAT and Andover was in complete control as the

The Golden Warriors showed few signs of letting up in the second half, stopping Dracut on its first possession and scoring immediately on an electrifying 60-yard punt return by the versatile Shepard.

Kevin Patenaude spoiled Andover's shutout bid with a four-yard run in the fourth quarter, but mighty-mite Rod Lumley (5'5", 135 pounds) galloped 60 yards in the closing minutes to cap the impressive Andover offense.

Big senior two-way lineman (6'1", 230) and backup placekicker Sean O'Leary gave Scott Henry's tired right toe a rest by booting the final conversion.

The Golden Warriors finished with just under 300 total yards from scrimmage, all but 28 of it on the ground.

Defensive coordinator Joe Iarrobino's unit was again sharp, and has now yielded just 12 points in three games.

Among the defensive standouts were J.P. Ciruso, O'Leary, Mark Maesano, Wolcott, Shepard and Toby Guzowski.

Tewksbury

Andover should get its mettle tested tomorrow night when the Warriors return home to face a surprising Tewksbury High team.

Kickoff time under the lights at Lovely Field is 7:15 p.m.

Coach Joe DeGrosso's squad is 3-1-0 with impressive victories over Chelmsford (19-13), Greater Boston League power Malden (19-7) and Lawrence (41-12). The only loss came to Central Catholic (20-0) in the rain.

The Redmen do most of their damage on the ground, and top offensive guns are running backs Ryan McNeal and Dave O'Keefe.

Real Deal McNeal has rushed for more than 400 yards in four games, including 196 in the season opener against Chelmsford, while O'Keefe is the top scorer with six touchdowns (36 points).

Quarterback Chris Snow has been successful at times throwing the ball.

Mike Roux and O'Keefe are defensive leaders.

wide receiver and defensive back.

Shea and Kelmer are also excellent baseball players.

Several North Andover residents are also on the team, junior quarterback Jim Cavanaugh (5'10", 175), junior defensive back Mike Foster (5'9", 165) and junior tackle John Markos (6', 210).

Cavanaugh, following in the footsteps of Andover's Bill Batchelder who turned the GDA program around with back-to-back spectacular individual seasons in 1989 and '90, is a classy, gutsy performer who earned All-ISA honors last year.

Cavanaugh had a big day against Thayer, running for one touchdown and passing for two more.

Markos, probably the strongest player on the team, was designated Most Valuable Lineman against Exeter for his run blocking.

Foster, small and quick, is a solid two-way performer at cornerback and running back.

Governor Dummer was scheduled to play St. Paul's of Concord, N.H. last weekend, and has a big rivalry game this Saturday against Brooks School of North Andover (2 p.m. at Dummer).

The final game of the season, Nov. 14 at Belmont Hill, could determine the ISA champion. Belmont Hill is a veteran team, loaded with seniors and versatile athletes, and they play a very physical brand of football.

Frosh soccer team improves record

The Andover High freshman girls' soccer team improved to 5-1-2 last week with a resounding 8-0 victory over Concord-Carlisle and a hard-fought 1-1 tie with Beverly.

Andover and Concord had battled to a scoreless tie earlier this fall, but this game was dominated by the Lady Warriors with high-scoring Randi Spiegel's three-goal hat trick and two assists leading the romp.

Erin Collins and Elaine Licata added two goals apiece for Andover, while Shannon Lee netted the other goal.

Jen Prudden earned her second straight shutout in net.

Beverly grabbed a 1-0 lead just four minutes into its physical battle with Andover, but the Panthers were shut down the rest of the way by the locals.

Andover finally came from behind to forge the 1-1 tie on Randi Spiegel's 12th goal in eight games, assisted by Missy Famiglietti.

Coach Kathy McDermott's young Warriors are scheduled to play at Chelmsford tomorrow.

Swim team places first in three events

By Rick Harrison

Freshman sensation Diana Liberty continued her mastery of the freestyle events, winning the 100- and 200-yard races in All-State Meet qualifying time, but the Andover High girls' swim team placed first in just three of the 12 events overall en route to a 99-85 Merrimack Valley Conference dual meet loss to undefeated Haverhill last Friday.

"They have a very strong team, so what we tried to do was match up certain girls in different events in an attempt to get some Sectional qualifying performances," explained Andover Coach Marilyn Fitzgerald. "And it worked in several instances. The divers also did more difficult routines this week in an attempt to get higher scores."

The setback left first-year AHS Coach Fitzgerald's Lady Warrior natators at 13-0 overall, while Haverhill improved to 5-0-0.

Andover returns to the water tomorrow afternoon, hosting winless Westford Academy at the Greater Lawrence Regional School pool (3:30 p.m.), and next Tuesday the locals have a rough assignment at Chelmsford High (3:30 p.m.). Diana Liberty made her splash with a first-place 58.42 second clocking in the 100 free and a 1:58.77 in the 200 free, beating Haverhill flash Alison Horgan in the latter race.

Junior Mandy Wilson picked off the third AHS victory in the 500 freestyle, continuing her tremendous improvement with a personal-best 6:24.09 clocking.

Earning individual second place finishes for the Lady Warriors were senior Tri-Captain Chrissy DerAnanian in the 200IM, a Sectional qualifying 2:36.08, junior Megan Miller in the 50 free (28.30), junior Ronit Shteiyyer in the 100 breaststroke with a Sectional qualifying 1:18.12 clocking, and Carrie Moran in the 100 backstroke with a Sectional qualifying 1:13.70.

Capturing third places for the Lady Warriors were senior Karen Murphy in the 200 free, (personal-best 2:23.62), senior Anne Milmoie in the 1-meter diving (168.30 points), Mandy Wilson in the 50 free (28.82), senior Tri-Captain Molly Grassis in the 100 butterfly (1:16.87), junior Whitney Bates in the 100 free (personal-best 1:04.04) and freshman Nicole DeLisio in the 500 free (first time in event).

Amanda Schaake placed fourth in the diving (151.55 points) while Katie Lennon was fourth in the 100 backstroke.

Individual fifth places went to Mary Chesney in the 200IM (personal-best 2:49.52), freshman Lindsey Bates in the 50 free (31.13), Joan Sunderland in the diving (127.40), freshman Amy Pettoruto with a first-time 1:23.25 in the 100 butterfly and Emily Winter in the 500 free.

Haverhill swept first place in all three relays.

Andover was second in the 200 free relay as Meghan Miller, DerAnanian, Karen Murphy and Liberty clocked 1:53.02, and second in the 400 free relay with DerAnanian, Mandy Wilson, Murphy and Liberty.

Earning second in the 200 medley relay were Carrie Moran, Mindy Fox, Molly Grassis and Meghan Miller, while third went to Katie Lennon, Katherine Matto, Heather VanDerHeiden and Ronit Shteiyyer.

Tryouts for girls' b'ball team coming up soon

Tryouts for a traveling seventh-grade girls' basketball team, made up of Andover residents, will be held at the West Elementary School Gymnasium Mondays, Oct. 26, and Nov. 2, from 4 to 6 p.m.

The team will play other traveling teams from the area. The annual registration fee will be $100.

Games will be scheduled so they do not interfere with Church League games, making it possible to be involved in both.

Registration forms will be available at the Andover Hockey Shop. For further information, call Dick Muller at 475-7181.

Matt Harris is top performer

Matt Harris has been a top performer for the University of Massachusetts - Lowell Chiefs, and recently highlighted his season with a solid 76-75-151 in the two-day Toski Invitational Tournament at Hickory Ridge in Amherst.

Harris was 16 strokes better than any other UMass-Lowell golfer, as he helped the Chiefs to a 14th place finish among 25 schools. The Chiefs were also second among Division 2 schools.

Boys' soccer team stays strong and in contention for championship

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High boys' soccer team remained in solid contention for the Merrimack Valley Conference Large School Division championship by winning three games last week, taking over sole possession of second place just two points behind defending titlist Lowell High.

Following a 3-0 loss to Billerica were a 2-0 whitewash of Chelmsford, an 8-1 romp over Methuen and a 6-0 blasting of Dracut to boost the Golden Warriors to 9-2-1 overall for 19 points.

Lowell was 9-0-3 for 21 points following Monday's holiday action. Billerica 7-2-3 for 17 points after consecutive losses to Central Catholic and Dracut, and Central continued to hang tough at 4-1-6 for 14 points with a game in hand.

Coach Dave Amundsen's crew needs just three points in its final six games to qualify for the Eastern Mass. Division 1 Tournament.

AHS is at Haverhill this afternoon (3:30 p.m.) and hosts Central in a key clash Saturday night at Lovely Field (7 p.m.).

Quang Nguyen led the scoring parade after 11 games with 5-6-11 points, while Josh Nelken is the top goalscorer with eight.

The Andover defense has been sharp and consistent all season, goaltenders Matt Reghitto, Chris Sintros and Dave Charland posting six shutouts and allowing just 10 goals in the first 12 games for a combined 0.83 goals-against average.

Billerica, 3-0

The Golden Warriors completed the first half of the schedule on a downer. Billerica dominating play throughout.

The Indians did all their scoring in the first half, league-leading marksman Dennis Baniewicz pumping two goals past Matt Reghitto and setting up a third by Bob Ross.

Senior midfielder Kevin Nusky was lauded for his consistent play, and AHS did finish with a 13-8 shooting edge as Billerica goaltender Aaron Duncan was forced to make 13 saves to Reghitto's five.

Andover, 2-0

Goals by junior forward Quang Nguyen and Dan Bucholtz lifted the Golden Warriors to this tug-of-war victory over stingy Chelmsford, which had yielded just 12 goals in 11 games but scored only eight.

Nguyen banged home a rebound at 30 minutes of the first half, assist to senior forward Josh Nelken, and Bucholtz produced the insurance tally with two minutes left in the game on the rebound of a Nguyen shot.

Matt Reghitto went the distance in net and was required to make just one save for the shutout. Chelmsford keeper Robin Lennox had eight stops.

Defensive standouts for Andover were senior midfielder John Martin, senior sweeper Keith Selvittelli and defender Rob Weisman.

"It was a fairly even game," offered Coach Amundsen. "Chelmsford dominated the first 10 minutes, but slowly after that surge we got our chances and finished with more opportunities.

"It was a good way to bounce back after the loss to Billerica."

Andover, 8-1

This one was simply a mismatch from the beginning, AHS scoring more than three goals for only the second time this fall (the first was in a 4-0 win over Methuen).

Several of the goals came from unexpected places, senior defender Mike O'Sullivan and senior sweeper Keith Selvittelli both netting their first two of the season.

One of Selvittelli's came on a penalty shot.

Contributing single goals for the Warriors, who led 3-0 at the half and pumped home five more after intermission, were John Martin, Quang Nguyen, senior wing Andy Brown and senior forward Brian Croteau.

Junior forward Lyle Morgan passed out two assists, while junior midfielder Dave Poulo, senior forward Steve Kulcsar and O'Sullivan added one apiece.

Matt Reghitto and junior Chris Sintros split the goaltending chores, combining for nine saves.

Also playing well for Andover were sophomore defender Eric Pisick and senior forward Drew Leinson.

Andover freshmen

Sean Rodriguez scored two goals as the undefeated Andover ninth graders (7-0-0) blitzed Beverly, 4-0. Jon Adams and Brian Kwon had the other goals, while defensive standouts were Josh Hatch, Chris Rogers and Eric Bourassa.

Rodriguez also netted a pair in a 3-2 decision over crosstown foe Phillips Academy. Erik Dubasak pocketed the game-winner in the closing minutes, Ryan Hadley contributed an assist, and other standouts were Ryan Turner, Pat Hess and Adams.

Andover, 6-0

Monday morning The Golden Warriors cooled off a red-hot Dracut team that had gone 4-1-2 in its previous seven starts including a big 2-1 upset of Billerica two days earlier.

Josh Nelken netted a pair of goals, early in each half, as Andover grabbed a 2-0 lead at intermission and added four second-half goals.

Adding single tallies were Quang Nguyen, Steve Kulcsar, John Martin and Keith Selvittelli (penalty shot). Selvittelli also passed out two assists and Raul Aznar one.

"Josh had the two backbreaking goals," noted Coach Amundsen. "Dracut applied some pressure and played well."

Matt Reghitto worked the first half in the AHS net, Chris Sintros the second half, and the pair combined for eight saves en route to the Warriors' sixth shutout.

Also playing well for Andover were defender John Desmond, defender Rhett Bachner and midfielder Kevin Nusky.

Lady Warrior soccer team is undefeated in last eight games

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High girls' soccer team registered two impressive wins last week, 3-0 over league foe Tewksbury and 2-1 over non-league rival Arlington High, and then battled Merrimack Valley Conference archrival Billerica to a 2-2 standoff last Monday night in their first-place showdown under the lights at Lovely Field.

Those results stretched the Lady Warriors' undefeated streak through eight games, boosting their MVC ledger to 5-1-1 to go with a 1-0-2 non-league mark for a 6-1-3 overall record.

A game against Chelmsford was rained out Friday night and re-scheduled for this past Tuesday night.

Billerica entered this week's supreme battle with a 7-0-0 league record and 11-0-0 overall slate, including a 2-0 victory over Andover on Sept. 18.

"With the tie it appears we're going to finish just short again this year, one or two points behind Billerica," noted Coach Dick Loschi. "But this game proved we can play with them, and I have a funny feeling we'll see them again in the tournament."

A title for Billerica would be its second straight, while Andover is trying to win or share its sixth championship in seven years.

The Lady Warriors, with six of its remaining seven games at home, hosts Masconomet Regional of Topsfield tonight at Lovely Field (7 p.m.).

Wrapping up the regular season will be games over the next two weeks against Dracut (away), Peabody (home), Lowell (home), Wilmington (home) and North Andover (home).

Lindsey Sweeney was Andover's top overall scorer after 10 games with 5-6-11 points, while freshman Jenn Munroe was the leading goalscorer with six.

Andover-Billerica, 2-2

"The domination factor was unbelievable," said Coach Loschi. "We were in the Billerica end for 30 of the 40 minutes in both halves. Our kids knew the (title) situation and what they had to do. We were all over the ball all night.

"Unfortunately nothing worked for us in the first half, but it was nice to see the girls didn't stop hustling even though we were down 1-0 at the half and the frustration level was high.

"Even though the game needed 2-2 we were definitely the better team on this particular night," continued Loschi. "But I give Billerica all the credit in the world. They hung in there tough even though three of their top players were out."

The Indians were without sweeper Tanya Yavarow (broken shoulder bone), acknowledged as one of the best 3-4 players in the league, halfback Heather Andrews (broken leg bone) and halfback Jill Dempsey (mononucleosis).

Billerica inched ahead 1-0 on the first of Danielle Ouellette's two goals with just 30 seconds left in the first half.

Hilary Recesso tied it for Andover at 6:23 of the second half, sending a half-volley drive over Indian goalkeeper Alison Morrissey's head. Michelle Morey notched the assist.

Ouellette's second goal at 21 minutes of the second half gave Billerica a 2-1 advantage, but freshman Vanessa Blank's fourth goal of the season tied it at 26:20.

Blank fired home the rebound of a direct kick by freshman Sue Cookson.

The Lady Warriors appeared to score what would have been the game-winner with five minutes left, but Becky Levine's goal was nullified by the officials who whistled her for a tripping penalty on the play.

AHS goalie Beth Everett finished with six saves while Morrissey, who had yielded just two goals in seven previous MVC games, had 12 stops as Andover held a 14-8 shooting edge.

Cited for outstanding play by Coach Loschi were midfielder Rachel Roberts and freshman forward Jenn Munroe.

Andover, 3-0

Tewksbury, which has never beaten Andover, didn't put up much of a fight as the Lady Warriors held a wide territorial advantage and a 16-6 shooting edge.

"It was a very slow, tedious game," said Loschi. "A letdown for us after the high of the Wellesley game (2-2 tie) two nights before. We came out flat and it took us awhile to get going.

"Tewksbury is improving but had trouble finishing off its plays."

Lindsey Sweeney finally got AHS going 27 minutes into the game, scoring an unassisted goal on a direct kick.

Jenn Munroe made it 2-0 with one minute left in the first half, taking a pass on the wing from senior midfielder Rachel Roberts and blasting home a 16-yard drive.

The only goal of the second half came at the 32-minute mark, senior forward Michelle Morey scoring her fourth of the season on a header. Linemate Becky Levine notched the assist.

Senior keeper Beth Everett made six saves en route to the team's second shutout, and first since the season opener against Chelmsford (5-0).

Also cited for strong play were sophomore defender Amy Baker, senior defender Kara O'Handley and senior forward Tara Griffin.

Andover, 2-1

Arlington became the Lady Warriors first non-league victim, after ties against Bishop Fenwick and Wellesley.

It was a character-building come-from-behind victory on late goals by Lindsey Sweeney and Jenn Munroe.

"We were down 1-0 with 16 minutes left, and we had been playing poorly," admitted Coach Loschi. "Then something seemed to click and we just turned on the power."

Arlington led 1-0 at the half, but Sweeney tied it 24 minutes into the second half with an assist to Tri-Captain Rachel Roberts.

"It was a double back ball," explained Loschi. "Maureen Wade started the play on a corner kick, Roberts headed the ball back to Sweeney, and Lindsey headed it forward into the net."

Jenn Munroe's game-winning heroics came with just under two minutes to play, the assists credited to both senior midfielder Hilary Recesso and Sweeney.

Sweeney's throw-in went off Tri-Captain Recesso, bouncing up and over an Arlington player to Munroe.

Munroe headed the ball and it deflected off a Spy Ponders' defender and past the goaltender.

"We controlled the last 15 minutes," said Coach Loschi. "After we took the lead Arlington never threatened to tie it."

Sophomore goaltender Kim Kelley played the first 71 minutes, making eight saves before an injury forced her out with nine minutes left and the score tied 1-1. Kelley was accidentally kicked in the upper arm area and suffered some temporary nerve muscle damage.

Beth Everett finished the game and was not required to make a save during her stint.

Eliciting praise from Coach Loschi for their defensive work were senior Marcia Gemmell and Amy Baker.

Andover JVs

Goals by Robin Lapointe and Katie Ryan enabled the Andover junior varsity, 7-1-1 overall, to nudge Arlington 2-1. Sarah Paskowsky and Amy Baggeroer assisted, Kristen Chaisson played well defensively and Meghan Lynch was the winning goalie.

The JVs also blanked Tewksbury, 2-0, as Alison Georgian and Jen Griffin scored goals. Meghan Lynch registered her sixth shutout in net, and assists were passed out by Lapointe and Chris Donovan.

Freshman gridders blank Dracut, 14-0, with third quarter touchdowns

By Rick Harrison

Third quarter touchdowns by Mike Shaughnessy and Rick Mendez broke open a scoreless struggle, as the Andover High freshman football team blanked Dracut 14-0 in Merrimack Valley Conference action last Friday at the Doherty Middle School field.

The victory hiked Andover's early-season record to 2-0-0, and the freshmen have now won 25 of their last 26 games over a four-year span.

Coach Ken Pellerin's Young Warriors scored on their first possession of the third quarter, Shaughnessy racing 53 yards and then rushing the two-point conversion for an 8-0 lead.

Later in the period cornerback Ken Oppenheim put a hard hit on a Dracut ballcarrier, whose subsequent fumble was recovered by linebacker John Blais.

That set up the second TD, a 15-yard run by quarterback Mendez to complete the scoring.

Andover also had a third touchdown called back in the third period. Mendez completed an apparent 25-yard scoring toss to Ed Seero, but it was wiped out by an ineligible receiver penalty.

Andover piled up over 300 yards total offense from scrimmage, including 243 yards on 34 rushes and 62 yards on 4-of-8 passing by Mendez.

Shaughnessy led all ground gainers with 123 yards in 13 carries (9.7 average), while Rick Mendez added 49 yards in six carries, Jeff Hesenius 25 yards in four lugs and John Misquitta 14 yards in four rushes.

Coach Ken Maglio, the team's defensive coordinator, watched his unit do another solid job as Dracut finished with just two first downs, less than 40 yards total offense and no real scoring threats.

Defensive leaders were Oppenheim, middle linebacker Mendez (six unassisted tackles), linebacker Blais and end Adam Lafond.

Shaughnessy also added a pair of fumble recoveries to the one by Blais.

Andover had its second tough week with penalties, picking up 11 for a total of 75 yards.

In a scoring change from last week, Rick Mendez had one touchdown and Mike Shaughnessy just one instead of two.

The Young Warriors should get tested tomorrow when they play at Tewksbury (3:30 p.m.). The Redmen beat Lawrence 18-6 last week after Andover had defeated the Lancers 22-6 the week before.

Dragon Palace Restaurant

For a unique and delicious dining experience, come to the Dragon Palace Restaurant in Methuen. The Dragon Palace is a Chinese steak house, featuring a Mongolian Bar-B-Que. This style of restaurant is typical of the restaurants of Hong Kong, Okinawa and Shanghai and the individualized cooking style is unique in this area.

The long buffet table with its many traditional offerings is the first thing that you notice when you enter the restaurant, but owner Johnny Fang is quick to point out that the buffet is just the appetizer portion of the meal. The main course is the Mongolian Bar-B-Que, which is prepared at the other end of the dining room. Here, at another hot hot table, you pick from fresh raw ingredients, chicken, beef, pork, noodles and various vegetables, mixing them in whatever quantities you like. After you have selected your main ingredients, you move on to the seasonings table, where you can choose the sauces and flavorings to add to your raw ingredients. The chefs, who are all professionals, will gladly help you to decide on seasoning, including making your dish as hot and spicy as you want. The chef then takes it from you and stir fries it on the imported Mongolian grill. In just a few seconds, your meal is cooked and you are ready to enjoy a crisp and tender, delicious meal. Mr. Fang places special emphasis on the fact that his ingredients are fresh so that there is no need to use MSG as a flavor enhancer.

Johnny Fang brings many years of restaurant and food preparation experience to the Dragon Palace. His family was in the restaurant business in China and he has owned restaurants up and down the East Coast. He has brought the Mongolian Bar-B-Que to this area because it is a different type of Chinese restaurant, one which he feels sure that people will enjoy. Along with the buffet and bar-b-que, the Dragon Palace also offers a full menu, complete with pictures, offering specialties of Northern Chinese cuisine in the Mandarin, Shanghaiese and Hunan styles.

The Dragon Palace offers Karaoke entertainment on Friday and Saturday nights and will soon have a Comedy Club operating. Banquet facilities for up to 250 people are also available.

The Dragon Palace is located at 5 Pleasant St. in Methuen (the former Red Tavern). The hours are Sun.-Th. 11:30-10; Fri. & Sat. 11:30-1 a.m.

We Guarantee You The Lower Rate

When refinancing or buying a home,
Andover Bank's Rate Lock/Re-Lock Option lets you lock in a rate at application for as long as 60 days with no points paid at the time of application. If rates decrease, you can take advantage of the lower rate (one time only) up to five business days prior to closing.
Best of all, if rates should increase, Andover Bank guarantees the rate won't go above the rate offered when you applied.

So don't delay your application process simply because you think rates may go down. Apply now and our Rate Lock/Re-Lock option will provide you with the guarantee of a lower rate.

Babysitting to be available at Nov. 9 Town Meeting

By Lisa Boudreau

Even if high school students can't vote at Town Meeting, they are still getting involved in town politics. More than a dozen Andover High School students have volunteered to provide child care in the high school cafeteria so parents can attend Special Town Meeting next door in the Collins Center.

Town Meeting is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 9, and could run over to the next night.

The cost for the babysitting is $2, per night, per child, and children ages 5 through 12 are eligible.

Pre-registration is required and forms will be mailed home to parents. Forms are also available in the Department of Community Services office in the town office building on Bartlet Street. Deadline to pre-register is Friday, Nov. 6.

Andover High senior Priya Singh, a member of the school's community service program, is organizing the event with the help of Richard Soo Hoo, 17 Walcott Ave., whose daughter is a fourth-grader at Bancroft Elementary School.

Mr. Soo Hoo and several other parents complained after last spring's town meeting that many parents who wanted to go to the meetings can't because child care is difficult to arrange during the week.

Jay Darrin, coordinator of Andover High School Community Service program, is working with Mr. Soo Hoo and Ms. Singh to organize activities, movies and refreshments for the night-care event. The $2 fee will go to covering expenses, but if there is money left over it will go to the AHS community service fund, he said.

"The student volunteers will have some cursory training before the night of Town Meeting and will be expected to have some baby sitting experience.

"There will also be a couple of adults there to supervise the evening," Mr. Darrin said.

Storyteller to recreate Pemberton Mill disaster Sunday

Noted storyteller Sharon Kennedy will recreate the tragic Pemberton Mill disaster of 1860 in a performance at Lawrence Heritage State Park on Sunday, Oct. 18, at 2 p.m.

Ms. Kennedy's adaptation chronicles the life of the Callahan family who emigrated from Ireland with hopes and dreams for a better life in America. The family of five settled in Lawrence where they all found work in the newly built Pemberton Mill. The story gives details of what happened to the mill workers, their families and the volunteers and firemen who were on the scene during and after the mill collapsed on January 10, 1860.

Her dramatic portrayal combines factual information with imagination and includes a scene from the courtroom as the mill's archifacts and builders are questioned concerning the mill's construction. The audience will also listen in on a minister's sermon which disputes the widely-held opinion of the time that the Irish deserved their fate.

Ms. Kennedy has performed stories and folktales for adults and children in more than 500 schools and libraries throughout New England. This program is offered free to the public through the combined support of the Museum of American Textile History, Lawrence Heritage State Park, and the Massachusetts Cultural Council as administered by the Lawrence Arts Lottery Council.

Seating for the performance is limited. Call Lawrence Heritage State Park, 1 Jackson St., Lawrence, for reservations and information at 794-1655.

MV Philharmonic sets season

The Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Orchestra has announced its schedule for the 1992-1993 season. The orchestra, led by George Monseur, is comprised of professional and amateur musicians from the Merrimack Valley.

The opening concert of the Philharmonic's 32nd season will be held Nov. 8 at Merrimack College. Jean Dane, principal violist with the Seattle Symphony, will perform Michael Haydn's Concerto for Viola and Orchestra. David Montgomery, artistic director of The New York State Opera, will be the guest conductor for the Concerto. Also on the program are works by Grieg and Tchaikovsky.

The family Christmas concert on Dec. 6 will be held at St. Joseph's Church in Amesbury. The Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Orchestra Chorale, directed by David Keefe, will perform seasonal favorites. Other featured soloists include principal violist Allison Yankowskas, Boston Philharmonic violist Rebecca Strauss, and 11-year old violinist Jennifer Myung of Methuen.

The Philharmonic returns to Merrimack College on March 14 for a program that includes Beethoven's Symphony #3, The Eroica, the Overture to Hansel and Gretel by Humperdinck, and two works by Wagner.

Preservation awards given to Andover property owners

By Barbara Thibault

Preservation awards were recently given by the Andover Historical Society and the Andover Historical Commission to the following properties.

Certificates of appreciation for historic preservation for landscape and preservation went to 59 and 63 Central St.; exterior preservation to the Shawshen Branch of the Lawrence Savings Bank; landscape preservation to 89 Prospect St. and 13 Sunset Rock Road; and for the preservation of school history and the quality of student life to the trustees of Pynchard Free School.

Historic preservation certificates for adaptive reuse were awarded to the Fry Circle Community Center and the former Ballard Vale Mill; sympathetic addition to 253 Andover St. and for exterior and landscape preservation to 34 School St.

The Andover Housing Authority manages 96 new units and oversees activities at the Fry Circle Community Center at 256 North Main St., an 1874 Queen Anne brick and shingle carriage house formerly part of the estate called "The Croft."

The preserved exterior retains the original cupola and inside the supporting beams and original stone foundation have been left exposed while providing handicapped access to the activity spaces, post office and laundry.

By the end of the 19th century, the Ballard Vale Manufacturing Company became world-renowned for its quality flannels and worsted goods. Now the 1836 Greek Revival mill at 204 Andover St. is the office of an educational center.

At the turn of the century, the Queen Anne house circa 1899 at 253 Andover St. was built for the Charles Pearson family using wood in many patterns and textures with a typical Victorian porch. The present owners worked with designer/builder Ronald Valentine to create additional space while maintaining and reproducing original materials, taking advantage of southern exposure and blending the old and new house with appropriate paint colors.

The historic, turn-of-the-century property at 34 School St. was brought together by the owners' attention to restoration with original materials, period paint colors and sensitive plantings, walkways and treillage fencing.

59 Central St., built in 1734, has a landscape that represents a living history like a stream of time. The Georgian-style house is on the knoll of a colonial thoroughfare and remnant fieldstone walls delineate boundaries. The latticed arbor reminiscent of the 19th century was placed so that the house might boast a fashionable vine. Early 20th century photographs show an addition to this old house, which is now 63 and how important treillage is to each unit.

63 Central St., Colonial Revival style from 1911, was separated from number 59 in 1935 and moved to its present location. The park-like setting is testimony to a continuing 19th century influence on the landscape. Local architect Addison LeBoutillier's origi-

GET UP TO $250 CASH BACK WITH AN ANDOVER BANK EQUITY CREDITLINE.

You got it right. Cash back! Apply for a new Home Equity Creditline at Andover Bank between now and November 20, 1992, and we'll give you a CashBack Voucher worth up to $250 to apply to your equity creditline payment. It's really quite simple: Just by opening a new Andover Bank Equity Creditline you will receive a $100 voucher*. Better yet, if at closing you draw a balance of $25,000 or more – to pay off an existing equity creditline at another bank or to finance home improvements, a car, etc. – we'll increase your voucher to $250*.

With an Andover Bank Equity Creditline, you'll pay absolutely no fees and have the option to convert to a fixed rate. And don't forget, our Equity Creditline lets you take advantage of tax breaks. In most cases, Equity Creditline interest is fully tax deductible for loans up to $100,000. Consult your tax advisor for details.

To request an Equity Creditline Kit, call our 24-hour Equity Message Line today (508) 749-2258. To speak with a Sales and Service Representative, call or stop by any of our eight convenient Merrimack Valley offices. We're sure you'll agree that at Andover Bank, you're the most important customer we'll ever have.

*Current Andover Bank customers must qualify for an additional $20,000 to present line to receive voucher. The CashBack Voucher must be applied to your equity creditline payment before June 30, 1993, and the borrower is required to keep the line at Andover Bank for one year from opening. Andover Bank's Home Equity Creditline carries a variable interest rate at 1 1/2% above the Prime Rate (as published by The Wall Street Journal), adjusted monthly on the last business day of the month, with an 18% lifetime cap. Current rate is 7.5%.

nal design was easily converted to a free-standing home. The treillage continues to play a unifying role, particularly with the addition of an attached garage.

Other features, such as the circuitous drive, multiples of stately trees, multi-level walled gardens, the separation of the property into use areas divided by shrubs and circular plantings, open lawns and areas of massed bulbs and filled ground cover, all contribute to this property carrying on the living history of Andover culture.

The Shawshen branch of the 342-46 North Main St. Lawrence Savings Bank is the former post office building constructed in 1920 for a village branch.

This triangular-shaped brick building topped with clock and bell also once housed a village market, community hall and rental offices.

Today, the Lawrence Savings Bank operates a branch and manages the customary space for the community and rental offices. In 1982, the Lawrence Savings Bank contributed to the noted publication on Shawshen Village by Edward Roddy, Mills, Mansions and Mergers.

Trustees of Punchard Free School, established in 1851, fund a variety of projects to enrich the community at Andover High School.

In addition to the preservation of the yearbooks from 1916 to 1991 on microfiche, they have recently supported a video orientation for new students, photo documentation of the annual senior show, the school newspaper and literary magazine, student groups and workshops like Students against Driving Drunk (SADD), art displays, field trips and faculty projects.

89 Prospect St., historically known as the Holt farmhouse, remains on land that was farmed by seven generations of this founding family from the 17th century until the 1880s.

Today, this farmstead is again owned by descendants. The house tops Holt's Hill and faces south with a view of Boston on clear days. It is said that a crowd of townspeople gathered here to observe the smoke and cannon explosions of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

13 Sunset Rock Road, a colonial reproduction built in 1937, illustrates how a 20th-century dwelling and landscape are sensitive to the historical context of the surrounding environment, particularly the integrity of the setting.

Sunset Rock Road was part of the colonial road to Wilmington and then the romantics of the 19th century found "sunset rock," one of which is in the rear of this property.

The house design, large shade trees, ornamental and fruit trees and stone walls provide that old familiar comfort of former homesteads.

Members of the review committee included:

Norma Gammon, Andover historical commissioner; Steve Kearn, local businessman; Judy Wright, landscape consultant; and Jim Batchelder, Andover Historical Society board member.

Before you remodel your lower level, it pays to test now for elevated levels of Radon gas.

About one-third of Andover homes have dangerously high levels of Radon, a cancer-inducing, radioactive gas that percolates up from the soil beneath our homes. Radon gas is the second greatest cause of lung cancer in this country, far more dangerous than second-hand smoke and any other indoor pollutant. Radon levels are highest in our home's lowest level, and it is easier and less expensive to remedy before the basement is finished ... and before you and your family risk increased exposures by spending more time in the home's lowest level.

Testing is fast & inexpensive. High levels can be permanently reduced to well below the EPA guidelines in any home.

Radon Diagnostic Services has, during the last four years, helped hundreds of homeowners to accurately determine Radon levels and to remedy high levels, if necessary, with guaranteed results.

Don't wait until you sell to learn you must make an added investment to reduce Radon levels in order to sell your home ... an investment for which you will derive no direct benefit from dramatically reduced lung cancer risks.

Radon Diagnostic Services is the area's only EPA-approved, primary testing laboratory and EPA-approved Radon contractor, trained and experienced in all phases of testing, diagnostics, and remediation.

Distinctive remodeling for a distinctive community

Andover now has its own custom-design cabinet and remodeling showroom. Ray and Susan Badman have opened their new showroom in downtown Andover, located at Olde Andover Village, 93 Main St.

Designing Kitchens sell and install quality nationally advertised Quaker Maid cabinets and Homecrest cabinets for every room in your home, business or office.

For 15 years, Ray has installed many brands of cabinets. He has chosen Quaker Maid, he says, because of the unequalled quality, design and stability of the company.

Ray and Susan can adapt a design to fit any financial need you might have. Showroom displays include the latest in country, contemporary and traditional.

Other remodeling services include all related carpentry, including electrical, plumbing, flooring, room additions, bathrooms, office and business remodeling.

Ray has been a carpenter for 15 years and an installer and licensed, insured remodeling contractor for the past eight years. He has subcontracted for many successful kitchen showrooms throughout

Massachusetts. Previous customers include many well-known business executives, famous politicians and sports stars. He has a reputation for quality work, customer satisfaction and highest integrity.

Ray will complete or supervise all work personally. Susan will be delighted to take you through their brand-new showroom and explain the features and designs of each display.

Note: All displays have not been completed, due, they say, to circumstances beyond their control.

Expert offers tips to save money, keep water clean

American families can save billions of dollars while significantly helping to preserve and keep water clean, says Bob Ruhstorfer, water quality expert with RainSoft Water Conditioning Co.

RainSoft has prepared a number of ecologically sound water and cost-cutting suggestions that individuals and families can readily implement:

- Do not pour hazardous wastes into sinks, toilets or sewers; they cannot be handled by water treatment plants and, consequently, contaminate water supplies.

Such toxins include paints, thinners, furniture strippers, antifreeze, brake and transmission fluid, floor and furniture polish, pesticides and oven, drain, rug, upholstery and toilet cleaners. Use environmentally safe substitutes when possible.

- Use detergents wisely. Most contain environmentally damaging phosphates. Use less detergent than recommended on the package; use low phosphate or phosphate-free detergent (such as liquids), or use a substitute, such as soap powder.

- Wait for a full laundry load before doing the wash. Washing machines use about 14 percent of a home's water consumption, from 32 to 59 gallons per cycle. Save water, energy and money by doing full loads only. Reap extra savings by using warm water to wash, cold to rinse; they work just as well as hot.

- Put a displacement device in your toilet tank. More than five billion gallons of water are flushed down toilets each day, representing the greatest demand on home water supplies, about 38 percent of indoor residential water use.

- Install a low-flow shower head. Even a brief, five-minute shower consumes 35 gallons of water (more than 3 billion gallons of water a day, nationally).

Showers account for 32 percent of home water use. A $10, low-flow shower head reduces water use by 50 percent or more, perhaps the single most effective means of conserving water in homes.

- Attach low-flow aerators to the faucets of your kitchen and bathroom sinks. Such aerators, costing less than $4, cut water flow by 50 percent, as much as 3,300 gallons a year for the typical family of four.

- Don't allow water to run while brushing your teeth, shaving or washing dishes. When brushing, just wet and rinse your mouth and save nine gallons of water each time you brush. For washing dishes and shaving, fill the basin and save 25 gallons washing dishes and 14 gallons shaving.

- If you wash your car yourself, use a sponge and a bucket and save up to 150 gallons of water. Better still, go to a self-service car wash.

- Carefully inspect all plumbing, including water heater and sprinkler system, for leaks.

- Water lawns and outdoor plants only in the morning. Water from sprinklers evaporates up to eight times faster during the heat of the day.

In a drought, don't water grass that's turning brown; it will revive naturally when normal rainfall begins.

Si Mahfuz stands among the large selection of Oriental rugs available at Persian Rug Galleries in Nashua, N.H.

Oriental rugs date back to the 1600s

By Si Mahfuz

The term "Oriental rug" refers specifically to hand-knotted rugs from the Middle and Far East. The art of rug weaving began in Central Asia about 3,000 years ago when shepherds wove some of their wool into wall-hangings that would help to lessen the drafts in their tents.

Using these works of art on the floor didn't become popular until the 1600s, when European merchants began importing rugs from Turkey and Persia. Since then, the popularity of Oriental rugs has steadily increased.

Today's major rug-making centers include Turkey, India, Iran, China, Pakistan and Afghanistan, as well as the Caucasus and Turkestan regions of what was formerly the Soviet Union.

There are five basic Oriental rug designs:

- Aubussons, which are formal rugs with a central medallion surrounded by an open field, usually with a floral motif;

- Bokharas, which are relatively informal with a repeating geometric pattern surrounded by an elegant border;

- Chinese, which are formal rugs with broad fields of color and simple designs;

- Persian Florals, which are elegant formal rugs with rounded floral patterns (the designs are very intricate and can contain as many as 30 colors);

- and Persian Geometrics, which usually have a central medallion. They are characterized by straight lines in a variety of patterns and are used chiefly in dens and family rooms.

It is not easy for a novice to understand why one rug is more expensive than another but, as he begins to examine the various quality rugs, his eye picks up the differences. He will notice the clarity of design on rugs with high-knot counts (over 250 per square inch). He will notice that a simple Bokhara might have as few as four colors, while an intricate Persian design rug might have 30 colors. As he touches the rugs, he will find subtle difference in wool quality as well. He becomes educated and sees for himself that the price of a new Oriental is determined by labor costs and the quality of materials.

The tremendous variety of Oriental rugs offers the consumer flexibility and freedom in decorating. It is recommended in decorating a room that the choice of a rug be made first, since it is one of the more expensive items and it is going to last far longer than drapes and upholstery. A well-decorated room is balanced in color, texture and pattern. In color, you want a little of each - light, medium and dark. Designers use a variety of terms to describe texture. But they all agree that a room with a different texture hard and soft, smooth and coarse creates interest.

How then should you decorate with Oriental rugs? Keep in mind that you want to achieve the harmony of color, pattern and texture in your room. Most Oriental rug stores will let the customer take a variety of rugs home to try in their room to make sure that the size, color and pattern suit the room.

The best advice to give first-time Oriental rug shoppers is to shop around, learn all you can about rugs by asking questions and examining a variety of rugs, try some rugs in your room and then decide on your purchase. Remember, it is also very important to select a reputable and knowledgeable dealer who can maintain and service your new Oriental rug for years to come.

Learning tricks of the trade makes painting a breeze

It offered the choice, would you spend the afternoon in a hammock or paint the exterior of your home? (Remember, your hammock provides the best view of that aging paint job.)

When faced with a paint job that has been neglected for a long time, take the extra day to thoroughly strip and clean. A putty knife, paint scraper or wire brush can be used to scrape the old paint. Once you've scraped, go back over the exterior with sandpaper to feather the siding for better adhesion of primer and paint.

Use bristle brushes, not roller brushes, when painting the exterior of your home. Roller brushes don't reach into the pores of the wood as well as bristle brushes and are much more effective in the interior of the home. Also, choose your bristle brush carefully. A Chinese bristle brush works best with oil-based paint and polyurethane, or nylon with latex.

Paint sprayers are great for applying paint to wicker furniture but not necessarily the best tool to use for painting the exterior of your home. And, by using brushes, you're adding an extra year of durability over the spraying method.

Don't guess how many cans of paint it will take to paint your home. Simple measuring and mathematics will make the job cost-effective by eliminating the purchase of excess cans of paint.

One gallon of paint will cover about 400 square feet. Measure each side of your home by determining the height and width. Multiply these two dimensions then divide by 400 which is the number of square feet a gallon will cover. The final figure is the number of gallons needed for that particular side of your home.

Before the brush hits the first piece of siding, it's important to thoroughly clean the exterior. Use any recommended cleaning solution and give the entire exterior a good wash with a broom, then rinse really well with the garden hose. If not properly rinsed, Clorox crystals will dry in the pores and leave white spots.

Once you've cleaned, and if you're down to the bare wood, be sure to place a primer coat on before applying paint. You'll have a much more solid and consistent color.

When painting an older home, it's important to know what type of paint was originally used. To determine the type of paint you have, use this simple test. Scratch a nail on the surface of the paint. If the paint shatters from side to side, it's probably oil-based. If the nail leaves a straight line, it's latex.

If your home has aluminum siding, make sure to use paint made especially for that type of exterior. Most latex paint can be used on aluminum.

For cleaning outdoor oil and latex paint spills, use the following tips. To remove oil-based spills use mineral spirits or paint thinner as soon as possible. For latex spills, use warm soapy water or paint remover.

Learning the "tricks of the trade" before you start a project is the best advice in order to avoid any hidden surprises. Study and thoroughly understand every aspect of the job.

Contractor recognized as Code Plus remodeler

American Plywood Association has announced that Carl T. Trull of Finely Finished Construction, Pelham, N.H., is a participant in APA's new, nationwide Code Plus remodeler's program.

"Code Plus helps recognize remodelers around the country for the quality work that they do," said Rick Tanis, APA's remodeling market coordinator.

By participating in Code Plus, remodelers agree to build to Code Plus standards, which are above minimum building code requirements, using premium building materials and construction methods on floor, wall and roof systems.

"The basic structure is the most important element of any remodeling job," Tanis said. "Code Plus identifies remodeling contractors who build extra quality into the structural shell."

The nuts and bolts of Code Plus building systems are as follows:

On Code Plus floors, remodelers use APA rated panels and the APA glued floor system. For strength and stiffness, specs call for structural panels thicker than codes require.

All floor panels, including the tongue-and-groove edges, are glued and nailed for increased rigidity. And to allow for expansion without buckling, all floor panels are spaced 1/8-inch at edges and ends.

A Code Plus roof is built with structural sheathing panels beneath the roofing. These panels help to provide a smooth profile and strong weather-resistant roof. For strength and stiffness, specs call for structural panels that are thicker than truss or rafter spacing requires.

With Code Plus walls, remodelers use APA rated sheathing panels beneath the exterior siding of your choice, or APA rated siding in the single-wall construction. These structural panels help tie the floor of the house to the roof.

Therefore, the whole house system is much stronger and more storm- and earthquake-resistant. Also, the sheathing provides a nail base that helps keep the siding from warping or coming loose.

APA introduced the Code Plus program to builders last year. More than 700 signed up, with 300 more expected to join Finely Finished Construction in the Code Plus remodelers program in its first year.

"What the Code Plus program means to homeowners is quality construction and additional resale value," Trull said.

"Once your Code Plus remodel is completed, the homeowner gets a certificate which should be filed with other valuable papers. Because its going to mean something to the appraiser, the banker and the new homeowner," Trull said.

For more information, call Carl T. Trull, Finely Finished Construction, (603) 635-7004, or write P.O. Box 71, Pelham, N.H. 03076.

Think about fire safety when adding insulation

When people think about insulation, thoughts typically turn to energy efficiency and comfort.

Something that rarely comes to mind, however, is fire safety. But, this should be a concern because the two most common insulations, fiberglass and cellulose, perform very differently in terms of fire safety.

Fiberglass is made from sand that is first melted and then spun into insulation fibers. It is inorganic and, by nature, noncombustible.

Cellulose, on the other hand, is made from ground-up newspaper. This organic material is naturally flammable and must be treated with chemicals to make it fire-resistant.

The permanency of this fire treatment, however, has recently come into question.

The California Bureau of Home Furnishings and Thermal Insulation has released the third-year results of a 10-year test program on the flammability of cellulose.

The results show that nearly all the cellulose samples studied for fire safety by the bureau lost some of their fire retardancy, some by as much as 50 percent.

Use a noncombustible insulation material in the home.

There has also been a concern about smoldering and reignition problems with cellulose insulation.

Throughout the country, there have been documented cases of attic fires where the cellulose insulation contributed to the fires.

The heat from such sources as faulty wiring, recessed lighting, chimneys or flues caused the cellulose to ignite. Many times, these fires had to be extinguished more than once due to the material's tendency to smolder and ignite.

Therefore, it is important to use a noncombustible insulation material in the home.

Garage doors add to home's beauty, safety

A good garage door not only adds to the beauty and value of your home but also helps protect you against criminals and accidents.

Fortunately, it can be easy to find the garage door that's right for your home if you follow these helpful hints:

- Your garage door is ready to be replaced if it sags when it's raised and/or "smiles" when it's down. Do the rollers catch or drag when it's being raised or lowered? Is it cracked, split, dented or rusting? If it's a wood door, are the panels loose, bulging or peeling? Such conditions can be as unsafe as they are unsightly.

- A professional installing dealer will help you select a garage door and install it for you. Many have showrooms or will bring product samples to your home. Professional installation assures you of a proper and safe installation.

- Retail home centers and building supply stores offer doors for the do-it-yourselfer and may be able to arrange for professional installation.

- Steel garage doors offer great looks, durability and the least maintenance. Steel doors are finish-painted in several colors and are available in many designs.

- A "sandwich" constructed door is the newest innovation in steel doors. This type of construction bonds insulation between two steel "skins" to provide added strength, dent resistance, increased insulation value and quiet operation. The increased insulation quality is especially important if your garage is used for a work area or is attached to another living area of your home.

- Wood garage doors offer beautiful design possibilities, from elaborate carved panels to a rough-sawn, rustic look. Wood doors must be primed and finish-painted to protect against the elements.

- Fiberglass doors are a good choice for homeowners requiring a door resistant to salt air corrosion or requiring light transmittance and minimum maintenance.

Grabbing grubs

If you've noticed patches of your lawn turning yellow and then brown, one pest likely to be responsible for the damage may lie just below the surface.

Grubs, the larval stage of various hard-shelled beetles, weaken turf-grass by feeding on root systems. If you suspect grubs, pull back a small section of turf grass in the affected area and look for the white C-shaped larvae.

Controlling pests like grubs can be difficult because they are well-protected beneath the surface. Nonetheless, your best bet is to use a proven product of insecticide.

As an additional precaution, be sure to boost lawn's vigor by providing adequate watering and fertilization.

Follow safety tips to maintain utilities

The following are a few basic maintenance items homeowners should know about their house:

Water - It is important to know a little about the water sources in your house and how they can be isolated in the event of a leak at one of the fixtures or plumbing lines.

It is common to install a shut-off valve before a toilet, sink, shower/tub, etc., are put in place. These usually are just below the fixture, inside the vanity cabinet or behind an access panel directly behind the wall of the shower or tub. It is recommended that you test the shut-off valves and inspect them for leakage.

The main shut-off valve for the house usually is located in the basement or garage at the front or rear of the house. In the event individual fixtures' shut-off valves do not work or were not installed, use this valve to isolate the water.

Propane/Natural Gas - According to building codes, shut-off valves also are required for all gas-fed appliances. Check dryer, oven, hot-water heater, central air conditioner and furnace for these valves.

In the event you detect the odor of gas, do not turn on any lights or use any electrical fixtures, open all doors and windows to ventilate the area, turn off any valves to the appliances and immediately call your gas company's emergency number, which you should keep handy at all times. There also is a main shut-off before and after the gas meter. It usually is an in-line valve that requires pliers or wrench to turn off.

Never try to replace any gas fixtures on your own. A licensed, insured plumbing contractor should be contacted for any gas-related work.

Oil - The same shut-off valves should be located before oil-fired equipment. In addition, a main shut-off valve is located near the oil tank. In the event of a break in the line, turn off the main valve.

Electric - Most houses have one electric panel, located in the basement. Hopefully, the labels indicating the areas served by each breaker or fuse have been filled in.

If buying a new house, insist that this labeling be completed. In addition to individual breakers, there is a main breaker usually located at the top of the panel. In the event you work on any minor electrical repairs, always turn off the main breaker.

Any new wiring should be performed in accordance with local building codes. Before starting any work, ascertain what work you are allowed to perform.

Many jurisdictions require licensed contractors to perform all work.
